Furor Over Mock Italian Dialect

Butz Regrets Ethnic Remarks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, accused by Catholic leaders of insulting Pope Paul VI and all Italians in a remark about birth control, said today he never intended "to impugn the motives or the integrity of any religious group, ethnic group, or religious leader."

"I regret that some such interpretations have been made," Butz said in a statement.

The furor arose after Butz was quoted as having told newsmen Wednesday — using a mock Italian dialect — in commenting on world hunger and the Pope's birth control stand:

"He no plays the game; he no make the rules."

The office of Cardinal Terence Cooke in New York accused Butz of "ethnic mockery and vulgar religious prejudice" and demanded his resignation. Rep. Mario Biaggi, D-N.Y., made a similar demand.

Spokesmen for Butz said earlier he had not used the words as his own but had merely been telling newsmen about a joke, attributed to an unnamed Italian woman, which circulated through the World Food Conference earlier this month in Rome.

"It is unfortunate that a few remarks that I made at a news breakfast with 20 reporters last Wednesday morning were taken out of context in one account of that meeting and escalated in the news with an interpretation clearly not intended," Butz said.

"There was never any intention in any of the discussion or in any remark to impugn the motives or the integrity of any religious group, ethnic group, or religious leader."

The statement did not rehash details of the birth control comment, but stressed that Butz' remarks were in the context of an hour-long discussion "centered around the serious problem of the world population-food ratio now and in the years ahead."

The Pope, in a talk at the World Food Conference, had criticized wealthy nations for recommending population control in poor countries to help solve the world food problem.

It was questioning by newsmen on that point which led to Butz' controversial remark. "I pointed out that the world population may well reach 6.5 to 7 billion people by the end of this century," Butz explained.

"I expressed my judgment that agriculture will be able to ... feed that many people — even though it does mean doubling food production here and abroad in 25 years' time. However, at some point in time a continued growth of population at the present rate will result in widespread famine and starvation-related deaths."

He said he pointed out Wednesday that "any population, of people or anything else, that increases at an annual rate of 3 per cent will in 100 years be 17 times larger than the starting number."

"Population has been increasing at about that rate in some countries," he said.

A Sad Holiday For Unemployed

By United Press International

Volunteers helped provide a happy Thanksgiving for servicemen and the homeless, China fed shredded duck to a thankful Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, and Indians whose forefathers started the traditional autumn feast sought to recover land long since occupied by the white man.

The majority of Americans, however, either spent the nation's 354th Thanksgiving in front of televisions watching the Macy's parade and football or with visits to relatives for holiday turkey and dressing.

Or, they passed the day as President Ford did, hosting longtime friends.

Not all Americans found reason to be joyous or thankful. According to Labor Department statistics, more than 2.2 million Americans were on November unemployment benefit roles.

In the auto industry alone, from now until Christmas nearly 215,000 workers will be idled because of slumping car sales which are the worst in 14 years.

In Chicago, the American Women's Voluntary Services prepared Thanksgiving dinners for servicemen far from home. The Salvation Army in Chicago served 3,000 paper plate dinners of turkey and trimmings. Similar dinners were held for military personnel and the homeless in cities across the country, and in New York, derelicts along the city's Bowery were fed Colonel Sanders Kentucky Fried Chicken.

Present-day descendants of the Indians who greeted the Pilgrims at Plymouth Rock in 1620 had land, rather than food on their minds this Thanksgiving. Beatrice Gentry, president of the Wampanoag Tribal Council of Gay Head, Martha's Vineyard, Mass., said the tribe would file suit in Boston seeking to recover 250 acres, including the local cranberry bogs, from Gay Head.

"We think non-Indians have taken enough Indian land," Mrs. Gentry said.

In Peking, an orchestra played "Turkey in the Straw" to bring visiting Secretary of State Henry Kissinger as close as possible to a traditional holiday atmosphere. Shredded duck and other Chinese delicacies were served instead of turkey at a farewell banquet in the Great Hall of the People.

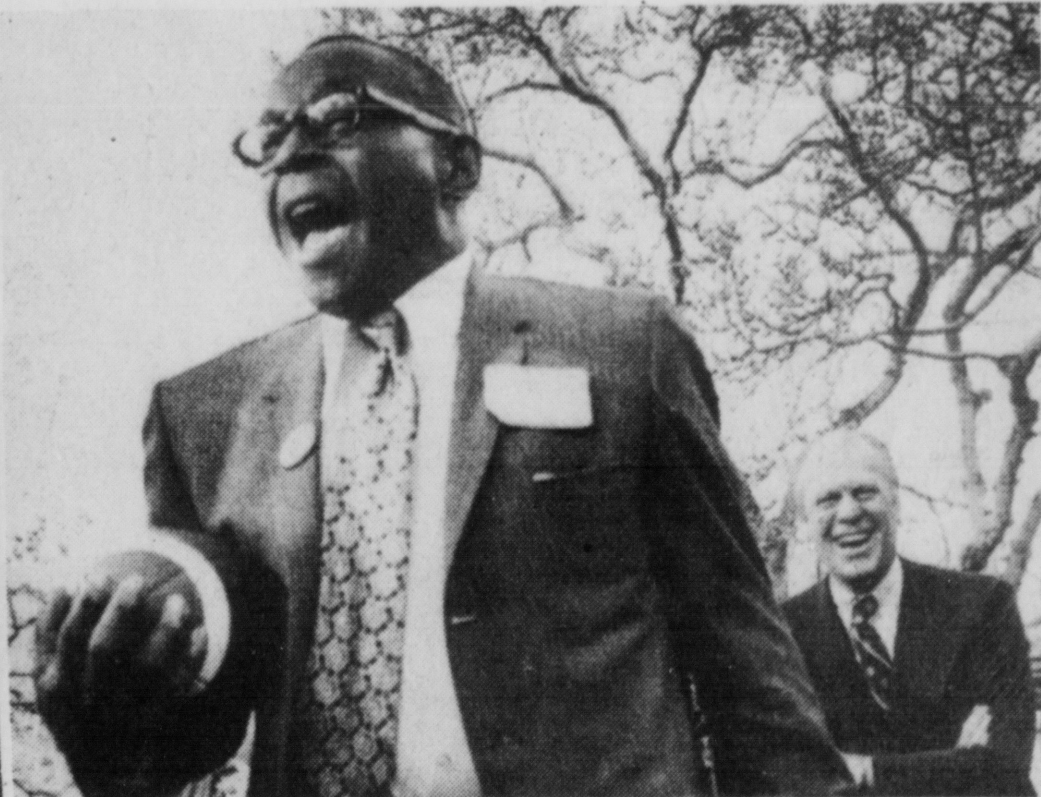

Ford played host to members of his Grand Rapids, Mich. high school football team and their wives at a brunch of eggs Benedict, followed by a turkey dinner topped off by cherry pie ala mode.

In Cuero, Tex., five prisoners at the Dewitt County jail ended a three-day hunger strike in time for Thanksgiving dinner. The inmates, who were demanding three meals a day instead of two, got chicken instead of turkey.

Highways, jammed with persons hurrying to turkey dinner, had claimed more than 100 lives before the end of the first 36 hours of the Thanksgiving holiday period.

Ford Schedules Visit to China Next Year

TOKYO (UPI) — President Ford will visit China next year, the Chinese and U.S. governments announced jointly today.

"The two governments agreed that president Gerald Ford will visit the People's Republic of China in 1975," said a joint communique issued at the end of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's five days of talks in Peking.

On Kissinger's plane, after its departure from China, a high American official said the Chinese indicated in the opening hours of Kissinger's discussions that they would welcome such a visit.

Wednesday, after checking by telephone with Ford twice, Kissinger made the offer and the Chinese accepted.

The official told newsmen aboard the plane that Ford's visit to China will probably come in the last half of 1975 and certainly after the June visit to Washington of Soviet Communist Party General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev.

Neither the Americans nor the Chinese gave any reasons for the visit. But, the Chinese will regard it as wanting the visit to counterbalance the Brezhnev trip to America. Further, Peking put the visit as another step toward the "normalization" of Sino-American relations specified by the Chinese and former President Richard M. Nixon on his pioneering presidential journey to China two years ago.

Meanwhile, Ford put aside world affairs and became plain old "Jerry" at a Thanksgiving Day reunion with his 1930 high school football team.

Hosting a brunch for his old teammates and their families at the White House, Ford insisted they call him by the name they knew him by when he led the South High players from Grand Rapids, Mich., to the state championship.

Outside, comedian Dick Gregory and two members of Congress picketed the White House to protest the administration's "lack of concern" for the hungry.

Inside, there was joviality, banter and sentimentality. The close ties of 44 years between Gerald Ford and his teammates and their families soon dispelled any awe the 52 guests felt at being in the White House.

They presented Ford with a desk and pen set featuring a football inscribed "to the President — team captain of South High," and also — recalling Ford's well-known taste for English muffins — a toaster with the inscription "a toast to our captain, Gerald R. Ford, 30-30 Club, 1974."

Arthur Brown of Grand Rapids, the secretary-treasurer of the club, had been an overnight guest at the White House and got up to have breakfast with Ford. The President had his usual muffins, but Brown said he preferred "white toast."

Brown said he got "bawled out" by Ford for calling him "Mr. President."

"I had to go back to 'Jerry',"

he said. "He is the same Jerry I used to know 50 years ago."

After three hours of reminiscence around brunch tables in the Blue Room, the whole party toured the state rooms and the family quarters and then moved to the Rose Garden where one-time halfback Silas "Siki" McGee delighted the Fords and the other guests by taking a football and imitating his former team captain running down the field.

Edward Preston, who came all the way from Johannesburg, South Africa, said "I wouldn't have missed it for the world — it was worth it."

A smiling Margaretta "Happy" Rockefeller waves to photographers through the window of her car as she pulls away from Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center's Memorial Hospital en route home. Mrs. Rockefeller walked out of the hospital on the arm of her husband, Vice President-designate Nelson Rockefeller and told newsmen, "I feel great and very thankful" after her second breast cancer operation in six weeks. Nixon Unable to Testify, Doctors Say WASHINGTON (UPI) — A panel of three physicians said today that ailing former President Richard M. Nixon is unable to testify in the Watergate cover-up trial and probably would not be able to until Feb. 16, 1975.

The specialists, who examined the former president at the request of U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica, also reported that Nixon would be unable to make a deposition until Jan. 6, 1975, and then only in two daily sessions of one hour each.

Meanwhile, former Attorney General John N. Mitchell completes three days of testimony and H.R. "Bob" Haldeman, once Nixon's White House chief of staff, takes the stand in his own defense.

Sirica appointed the medical panel to determine whether the former president, who underwent emergency surgery a month ago for treatment of phlebitis, has recovered enough to fly to Washington and testify. He is wanted by both prosecution and defense attorneys as a witness in the trial of five of his former White House and campaign aides.

Sirica also wanted to know whether, as an alternative, Nixon might be able to give a deposition at his home or appear at a nearby courthouse where the entire court might transfer to hear him.

Former White House domestic adviser John D. Ehrlichman says Nixon's testimony is essential to support his claim of innocence against charges of conspiracy obstruction of justice.

Mitchell's cross-examination by chief prosecutor James F. Neal on Wednesday produced some of the sharpest exchanges of the trial, rivaling in dramatic impact the playing of many previously secret White House tapes.

Mitchell steadfastly denied any involvement in the planning and cover-up of the June 17, 1972, Watergate break-in, but acknowledged he withheld information from federal investigators "for obvious reasons." He said this meant he was trying to avoid jeopardizing Nixon's re-election that fall.

Haldeman's lawyer has estimated his defense will require only two or three days. Haldeman's cross-examination will be led by assistant Watergate prosecutor Richard Ben-Veniste.

Sirica remarked two days ago he still believed the trial would be finished by his original deadline of Christmas. If Nixon should be unable to testify, Sirica probably will be right.

Ehrlichman's lawyer, William S. Frates, said he might call several witnesses, including the seven original defendants who pleaded guilty or were convicted in connection with the Watergate break-in.

The five defendants at the current trial remained in Washington for Thanksgiving. Ehrlichman was joined by his daughter, Jan, a student at Principia College.

Teachers' Strike Looms at Rondout

By JON POWERS

KYSERIKE

After more than 11 months of unsuccessful negotiations, the threat of a teachers' strike has surfaced in the Rondout Valley Central School District.

Peter Gaspar, chairman of the Professional Advancement Committee of the Rondout Valley Teachers' Association said today that the RVTA's negotiating team will recommend to the Executive Council that a strike vote be taken among the membership. Gaspar added that he is confident the executive council will accept the recommendation and that member teachers will support the negotiating team's stand.

The most recent negotiating session was held Wednesday night. At that time, said Gaspar, the Board of Education made a final offer "that we find totally unacceptable."

Formal negotiations between the two sides broke down in June. A PERB factfinder was summoned, and he issued his recommendations earlier this month. Since then, said Gaspar, both sides have compromised earlier positions in the direction of the factfinder's recommendations.

The dispute now, however, centers on economic provisions in the second year of a proposed two-year contract, something the factfinder never touched on in his report. The school board's economic proposal for the second year of the contract, said Gaspar, "is about five per cent less than what we think is acceptable, and that's a lot of money. The increase in the cost of living over the past several years must be taken into consideration."

Under revisions in the Taylor Law, the school board may no longer legislate a settlement. Short of a strike, said Gaspar, the only remaining recourse is appointment of a "super-conciliator" by PERB. "We understand that a man has been appointed," he said, "but there has been no indication that there will be a meeting."

Gaspar said a strike could be averted if the teachers are given some indication that the board is willing to reconsider its "final offer."

"We realize that a strike is illegal," said Gaspar, "but considering the extreme length of the negotiations and the fact that we have exhausted all legal means, we feel we have no other choice."

Superintendent of Schools Robert A. Robertaccio declined substantive comment on the strike threat, stating only, "The association does what it has to do and the board does what it thinks is best." Board president Wayne Kelder was unavailable for comment today.

America's Library System... Meeting the Worldwide Crisis

POUGHKEEPSIE
Although surely suffering the pinch of inflation, America's public library system remains well-adapted to meet the varied crises that face this country and the entire world, it was emphasized at the recent annual meeting of the Mid-Hudson Library System in Poughkeepsie. Jean O'Connor, recently retired director of Library Development for the New York State Library, told more than 200 trustees and representatives of 64 Mid-Hudson area libraries that the public library is able to meet the challenges of the future "precisely because it is governed by a board of trustees who are chosen from and representative of the community." She said those trustees are "the key to the library's responsiveness to change."

In outlining the library's role, both as an educational institution and information center in opening doors to knowledge, the former library official stated that at a time when we may have to re-educate ourselves in the field of food and nutrition, or have to change jobs and seek new ones, some of the information needed may be found in the library.

The mission of the public library is "more important than ever in time of crisis," she added.

Money, a cause of concern for many of the public library systems in this area, dominated discussion at the meeting. Altman W. Lampe, president of the Board of Trustees of the Mid-Hudson Library System, urged trustees of each of the member libraries to assume a more aggressive role in their respective communities to secure their "just" share of Revenue Sharing funds for their local library. He stressed that, in the general revenue sharing legislation, libraries were specifically mentioned as one of the eight priority categories eligible to receive such funds. Lampe emphasized, also, the need for individual member libraries to spend more money on books and library materials to meet the needs of their communities.

The annual meeting also included election of several new board members. Representatives from Ulster County include Grace Elliot of New Paltz, Mrs. DeWitt Hasbrouck of Stone Ridge and Mrs. James Manion of Marlboro. Seventeen community libraries in Ulster County are members of the Mid-Hudson system.

Area GOP Discusses 'Future'

SAUGERTIES
Saugerties Town Republicans looked to the future at their meeting this week, but couldn't resist taking a couple of swipes at the past.

Chairman Henry Breitenbach led the member participation discussion of "The Road Ahead" at the Flamingo Restaurant with the words "united we stand, or divided we fall," quoting Abraham Lincoln, a famous party member.

According to Mrs. William J. Everts of the club, some sentiment expressed was included in the following reference to the recent political campaign—

"We didn't go out and work hard enough to refute the Madison Avenue pitchman type of hogwash, outright lies and promises that could never be fulfilled, and as a consequence, all the people lost the best Assemblyman Ulster County will ever have."

And another quote: "We will make sure that the opposition's tactic of the big lie—lying loud enough and long enough until you are believed—will not get off the ground again."

Bringing members up to date on Town Board progress, Councilman Breitenbach stated that he had voted against the town budget because he was against increases in salaries for appointed and elected officials at this time, as it would be an added burden on the taxpayers.

County Legislator Clifford Snyder said that he was looking forward to working closely with Sheriff-elect Tom Mayone.

And pointing out that the Republican plan of multi-member county legislative districts will keep townships from being broken up, county legislator Charles Scala spoke in favor of that plan versus the single-member plans.

Club President Tim Murphy announced that details of the club's December holiday party, a Dec. 19 dinner at the Sawyerkill, will be presented shortly.

Ulster County Budget Hearing Slated Tuesday

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON
Ulster County employees, who are seeking substantial wage hikes for 1975, are being implored to turn out Tuesday for the public hearing on the proposed Ulster County budget.

Flyers have been and are being distributed by county union members urging employee attendance at the 7 p.m. meeting in the Legislative Chambers of the County Office Building where the proposed $45,117,460 county budget will undergo scrutiny.

Copies of the budget have been available to the public since Wednesday.

The employees, for whom salary increases have been included in the budget are nevertheless anxious to find out just how much has been allocated for them in view of the fact that the salary increases are lumped together in contingency funds and especially because county and employee negotiators have arrived at an impasse in their negotiations.

The Finance Committee, meanwhile, has expressed satisfaction in the fact that for the fifth time in seven years, county taxes will go down in spite of the fact that the total appropriation is up $7.3 million over 1974.

This is being accomplished through increased revenues and healthy balances on hand. The amount to be raised by taxes in 1975—$9,785,479 is $255,631, less than this year, according to Edward W. Snyder, administrative and budget officer.

Legislature Chairman Peter J. Savago (R-Dist. 8) said the budget shows decreases in taxes for most townships, depending upon the changes in their equalization rates which are set by the state and also on increases in assessed valuation of properties in the various townships.

Following Tuesday's public hearing, the Legislature's Finance Committee will meet to make any changes in the budget it deems necessary.

Adoption of a 1975 budget will come at still a later date during annual session in December at a regular meeting of the county board.

The Legislature also plans still another late December meeting to "close out the books" for the year, until that time, it will be impossible to determine just how much surplus will remain from the 1974 budget, according to Snyder, who said it will depend entirely upon how much money each department has expended out of its 1974 appropriations.

Visibly pleased with the 1975 predicted decrease in taxes, Savago noted that today's tentative budget is only $2 million more than the county budget was in 1968, a pronounced accomplishment in view of the increased cost of living and inflation of the past seven years, he said.

Revenues are estimated at $29,512,341 and fund balances amount to $5, 819,640. They include $3.5 million in the general fund; $2,028,390 in the county highway fund and $291,250 in the road machinery fund. The fund balances include appropriations not spent in 1974, surplus at the beginning of the year, unanticipated revenues and increased sales tax.

The increased appropriation in the gross budget stems from the need for additional money in various areas with welfare requiring the biggest chunk of change—$4.4 million more than in 1974.

RICHARD CASTIGLIONE

Educator Is Honored

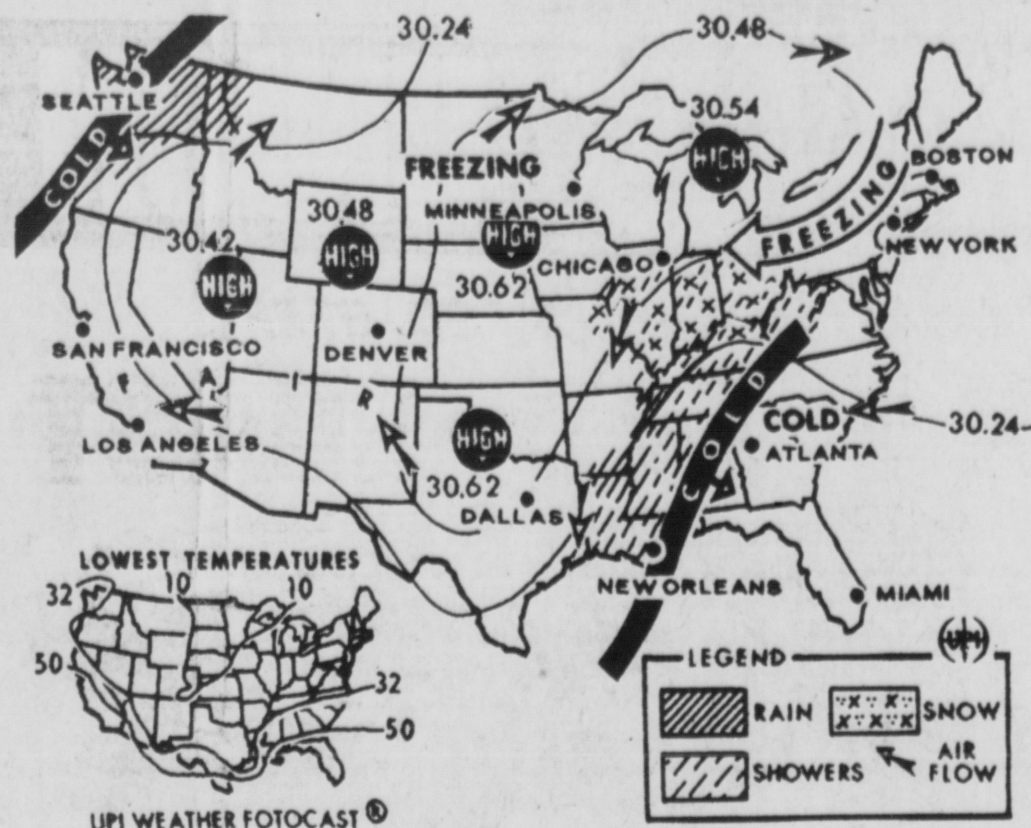

KINGSTON

Richard Castiglione, son of Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore Castiglione of Stony Run Apartments, has been named an "Outstanding Educator of America."

Castiglione is currently dean of the Philadelphia Music Academy. He graduated from Kingston High School in 1945, took a bachelor's degree in music from Pottsdam University in 1949 and followed with a master's degree in music from Columbia University.

V. Gilbert Beers, PhD, director of the institute that annually honors the nation's top educators wrote the following to Mr. and Mrs. Castiglione:

"Your son is one of (a) select number of educators from across the country to be awarded this high honor on the basis of his professional and civic achievements. I am sure you are most proud of him and the distinction he has brought to his family."

Children Drown As Ice Gives Way

COUDERSPORT, Pa. (UPI) — Three children walking on an ice-covered gravel pit fell through the ice and drowned Thursday.

State police identified the victims as Stacy Bauman, 7, her sister, Jody, 5, and their brother, Harry, 3, children of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bauman Sr. of Lock Haven, Pa.

Police theorized the children had walked onto the ice from different points but then converged at one spot about 20 feet from shore. The combined weight of the children caused the ice to break.

The Baumans had driven to Costello for a Thanksgiving visit with Mrs. Bauman's parents, Fred and Beverly Moore.

The Baumans told police the children had been out playing and when Mrs. Bauman could not hear them she went outside, accompanied by her mother. When the children could not be located they immediately went to the pond where the bodies of Jody and Harry were floating on the water about 20 feet from shore.

Abortion Gains in France

PARIS (UPI) — The National Assembly voted today to legalize abortion, ending a bitter, three-day debate in predominately Roman Catholic France.

The government-sponsored bill, which still has to go before the Senate, would legalize abortion in France during the first 10 weeks of pregnancy.

A strange alliance of Communists, Socialists and government legislators skirmished with anti-abortion lawmakers over amendments before passing the proposal 284-189 with 17 abstentions. The French Senate was scheduled to vote on the bill Dec. 13. If approved, the measure would then go back to the assembly for final passage.

Robert Ballanger, leader of the assembly's Communist bloc, said the vote was a victory made possible by lefttists who swung their support behind President Valéry Giscard d'Estaing's proposed reform.

The current law, passed in 1920, allows abortion only to save the life of the mother. The law is no longer enforced and an estimated 300,000 to 400,000 illegal abortions are performed in France annually.

Referring to the last time the assembly debated the abortion issue, Gaullist Deputy Bernard Pons said, "Since then, 349 days have gone by, 349,000 clandestine abortions have been done, 349 women have died."

At one point in the debate, Reformist Movement deputy Jean-Marie Daillet shouted to the author of the bill, Health Minister Simone Veil, "Do you want to send our children to the cremation furnaces?"

Mrs. Veil, a 47-year-old grandmother who was deported at the age 17 to the Nazi death camp at Buchenwald, temporarily left the hall after Daillet's comments.

Speaking later to the assembly she asked, "Where is conscience, where is responsibility, where is thinking when the government that we belong to is accused of opening the way to Nazi practices?"

In a move interpreted by portions of the French press as an effort to sway opinion in France, the Vatican Monday made its strongest anti-abortion declaration in recent times.

Pope Paul VI said in a 3,500-word declaration that the problem of overpopulation can be solved through sexual abstinence or the rhythm method of birth control, but never through abortion.

VIENNA (UPI) — Representatives of the world's major oil exporting nations have recommended that their governments keep the price of crude oil at the present level and adopt a new pricing system to protect consumers from manipulation.

The recommendation, made Thursday by the Economic Commission of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, will be submitted for approval to OPEC's ministerial meeting here Dec. 12.

"We recommended the maintenance of the present oil price level for the sake of economic stability," an OPEC delegate said. "We did not propose an increase for 1975."

He said the recommendation was "for a longer period" than the usual three months but that it was up to the ministerial meeting to decide how much longer.

"We want to make this and future price proposals for longer periods than three months in the interest of price stability," he said.

The current posted price of crude is $11.65 a barrel.

OPEC's Economic Commission met here from Tuesday to Thursday to draft new price proposals for 1975 and to study recommendations for a better system of pricing crude oil.

"We recommended a single price system that would be governed by supply and demand," the delegate said. "It will give better protection to producers and consumers and prevent price manipulations by the companies."

The plan must be approved by the oil ministers of OPEC before becoming effective.

The general outlines of the new pricing system were worked out at a meeting of experts from OPEC's 13 members nations last month.

"The new system will be governed by supply and demand and not fixed, posted prices," the delegate said.

UMW Officials Launch Pact Campaign

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — United Mine Workers officials, in local meetings and radio and television messages, began a campaign today to convince 120,000 coal miners to approve a new wage contract and end their two-week-old strike.

Copies of the three-year pact, which UMW President Arnold Miller calls the best U.S. labor settlement in 10 years, were distributed Thursday to miners throughout the nation's coalfields.

A ratification vote was expected to be completed Monday, and appeared likely to pass. UMW officials said if the contract was approved mines could open late next week for the first time since the walkout began Nov. 12.

The contract provides a 64 per cent increase in wages and benefits, but UMW leaders said there was some misunderstanding on some facets of the proposal.

Joe Duffie, a members of UMW District 17 in Charleston, said he was "very optimistic" the contract would be approved.

"There's still quite a bit of confusion, but it's possible we can straighten that out at local union meetings," said Carl Bunch, secretary-treasurer of UMW District 29, the union's largest, in Beckley, W. Va.

Bunch and district officials in other states spent much of Thanksgiving Day distributing copies of the contract to local union leaders who in turn passed them on to the membership.

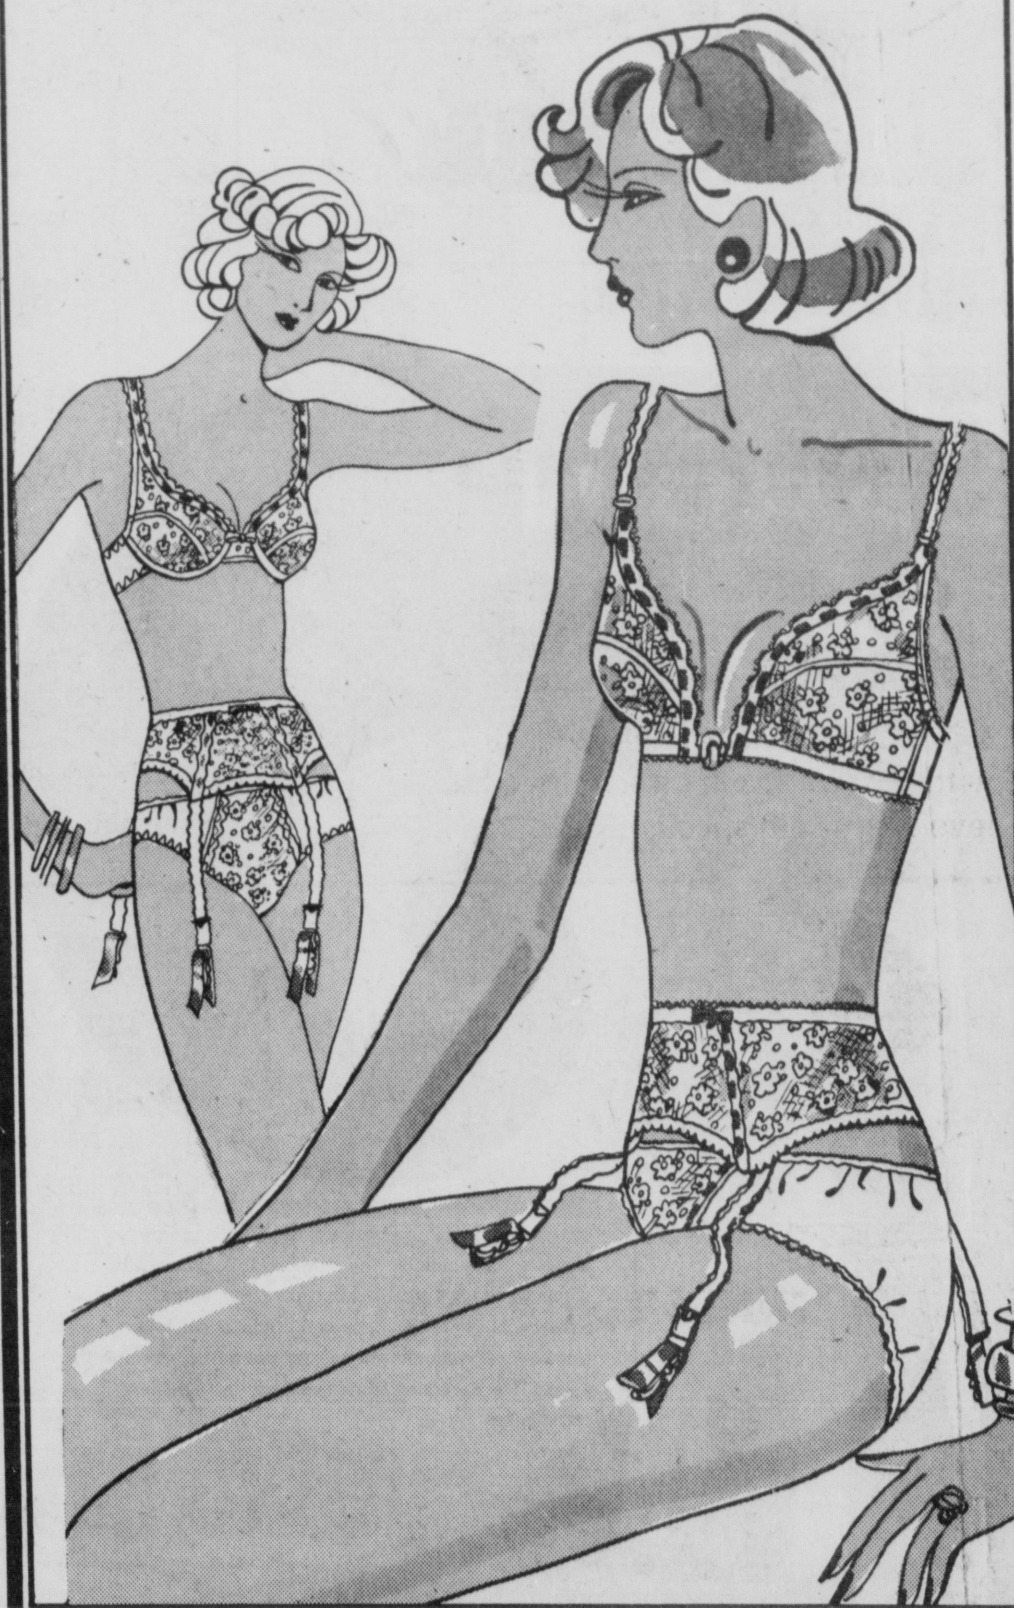

Miller and other high-level UMW leaders were confident the contract would be approved but Bunch said, "It's hard to tell at this point. It (sentiment) still seems kind of divided."

The strike has caused layoffs in coal-related industries, including steel, coke and railroads.

New Members Are Welcomed To Y Board of Directors

KINGSTON
Wallace A. Pfeiffer, president of the YMCA of Kingston and Ulster County, recently welcomed Mrs. Paul Johnson and Mr. Robert J. Ryan as new members of the YM's Board of Directors.

Mrs. Johnson, a graduate of the SUNY at Cortland was named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities while attending that school. A past president of the American Association of University Women, Mrs. Johnson also served on the Board of Directors of the Jr. League of Kingston, Inc. She also served as Heart Fund chairman for the Woodstock area, is a member of the Kingston Hospital Auxiliary, past president of the Kingston Women's Investment Group, and vice president of the Zena School Parent's Association. Recently she served as chairman of a community conference on "Voluntarism—Today and Tomorrow". She resides in Woodstock with her husband Paul and daughters Elizabeth and Karri.

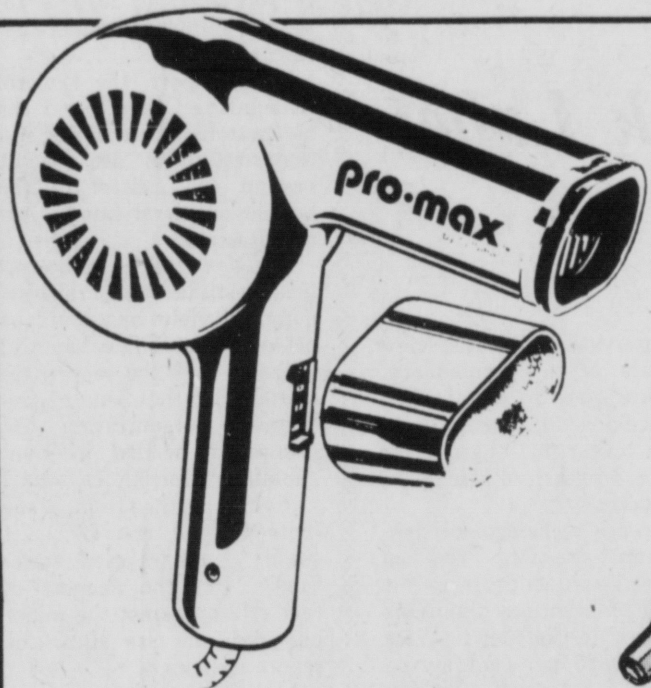

Robert Ryan is president of Robert J. Ryan

Inc. insurance agency and is also associated with the Wm. R. Morris insurance agency in New Paltz. He is a graduate of local schools and Siena College, Loudonville, with a BS degree in the field of finance. He is a member of Kingston Kiwanis Club, Kingston Toastmasters Club, and the Professional Societies of Chartered Property and Casualty Underwriters and Chartered Life Underwriters. He presently serves on the Board of Directors of the Ulster County Unit of the American Cancer Society, is a former board member of the Kingston Kiwanis Club and past president of the Hudson Valley Chapter of Society of CPCU. Ryan resides at 76 Lounsbury Place with his wife and four children.

Both the Johnson family and the Ryan family are active participants in YMCA programs and Pfeiffer indicated his pleasure at their acceptance of leadership on the Board of Directors.

The YMCA is a member agency of the United Way of Ulster County.

Label's Not Important

Some politicians still talk—for public consumption, anyway—as though the 19th century concept of free enterprise and capitalism continued to be the hallmark of American society. The fact is that a lot of what used to be called socialism has become a part of our political and economic life.

The revision of welfare programs recently proposed by Secretary Caspar Weinberger of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare newly highlights this trend. Under the HEW plan, not yet accepted by the White House, any needy family would be provided with one tax-free sum from Washington as opposed to the current multi-faceted approach. The poor, in short, would be provided with income to meet their basic needs.

The plan also would institute so-called "work incentives" whereby able bodied individuals would have to sign up for work and would be required to take any available job. Payments would continue at a declining rate, however, even if money was earned. For every dollar earned up to $7,200, 50 cents would be subtracted from the payout.

This suggested program comes a good deal closer to socialism than to capitalism. The interesting thing is that this has not been, and is not likely to be, a cause of much public concern.

Disputes will arise over the amount of the payment, the phasing out of old programs, and whether it is wise to make the entire payout in cash rather than in food stamps or other alternatives. But few if any serious commentators are expected to demand that the idea be scrapped because it is socialistic.

That says something about the course the United States has followed over the past several decades. Most Americans now subscribe to the philosophy that society should meet individuals' basic requirements when necessary, and they don't much care what label is attached to this view.

Remedy for Boredom

Boredom seems to be a problem for quite a lot of people, even some in high places. They weary of the same old routine, begin to lose interest in their jobs, think wistfully of more intriguing things they might be doing.

We now have a case history which suggests a remedy: get to be President of the United States. In an interview the other day President Ford said that after 25 years in the House he was getting to be a victim of boredom, but winding up in the White House changed all that.

Before being tagged for vice president, it seems, Mr. Ford had figured on running for one more term in the House and then retiring from politics. Fate intervened, and then went all-out to catapult him into the highest office. The effects were phenomenal.

So it's simple. If you're bored with your present job, just arrange to become president. It's a sure cure for the doldrums.

Holiday Letters

The tradition of sending fancy holiday greeting cards, a tradition assiduously nurtured by the card makers, is very well established. It would take something rather drastic to impel Americans to give up or curtail the practice.

Just such a something may be in the wind. The price of sending cards to a list of friends, relatives, business associates and whatnot has gotten to be a serious factor in determining the size of the list.

The card companies, beset by higher costs, are putting more high-priced cards on the racks. That old reliable, the 5-cent-card, has all but vanished; those ranging from 10 to 25 cents are less common than they used to be. The push is on to get us to buy more expensive ones. All of which may nudge many into the old fashioned but delightful expedient of writing holiday letters.

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — In the last few days, we have seen two important government documents which reveal that the oil industry plans to take even more ravenous bites out of the consumer's inflation-plagued pocketbook.

Oil Men Planning New Ripoffs

One is a secret General Accounting Office report showing how the Federal Energy Administration has shamefully ignored prosecution of Big Oil for $1 billion to $2 billion in overcharges and other federal violations. Thus, the money has been taken directly out of the pockets of the motorists, homeowners and other gasoline and oil users.

The other document is a Federal Power Commission staff report. It discloses that, even as the oil industry screams "shortage" as an excuse to raise prices in natural gas subsidiaries, huge reservoirs of gas have been squirreled away so it can later be sold at higher prices.

The FPC study comes at a time when the natural gas producers, championed by Sen. James Buckley, R-C-N.Y., are pushing to get price controls lifted so they can raise prices by 200 to 300 per cent.

The siren song by which they have won over Buckley and his allies is that without higher prices, there is no money to explore for new gas. Yet the FPC staff study seems to show that the oil companies have plenty of gas, but are hoarding it.

The FPC investigators have tentatively found that pipeline firms contracted for some 8.5 trillion cubic feet of gas in 1972 and 9.7 trillion in 1973 from the vast Gulf of Mexico fields. Unaccountably, it has been held back by the oil producers.

If the natural gas were flowing at this moment to the consumers at current prices, it would virtually wipe out the shortfall predicted by the oil and gas companies.

By withholding it, the oil companies appear to be purposely creating a "shortage" so they can panic Congress into deregulating prices. Among the giant companies controlling this gas are Amoco, Atlantic Richfield, Continental, Exxon, Gulf, Shell, Standard of California, Tenneco and Texaco.

We have learned that letters have been sent out by FPC Natural Gas Chief Frank Allen to the 13 pipeline companies which should be moving the gas. In the letters, Allen and Victor Zabel, the FPC's chief investigator for the study, have demanded data on these "reservoirs . . . from which no production was reported."

Meanwhile, Big Oil's natural gas lobbyists have met secretly to count Senate noses on "deregulation." We obtained a copy of their confidential Senate tote board which shows 50 in the oil industry's corner, 30 on the fence and 20 for the consumer.

Ironically, Big Oil and their natural gas lieutenants recorded Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., as a fence-sitter when, in fact, he has privately consented to lead a 15-senator filibuster against "deregulation."

In its report, the General Accounting Office found the big petroleum producers and their refineries are almost beyond the control of the helpless Federal Energy Administration.

"FEA refinery audit officials estimated . . . refiners' potential violations could be between $1 billion and $2 billion," said the report, requested by the Senate government reorganization subcommittee headed by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn.

If the violations were pressed, said the GAO, it could "result in price reductions." But the chances of real action against the major oil producers are slim, the report indicated.

Although blocked from FEA files in defiance of Congress, the GAO sleuths were still able to prove that not a single FEA auditor from the compliance and enforcement branch had been assigned directly to work on big petroleum producers.

Overall, the GAO discovered, FEA audits have lagged. The FEA has winked at innumerable violations, ignored past overcharges by companies and failed to verify Big Oil's data despite evidence of wholesale fudging. Even when gross errors or gouging were found, there were often no follow-up investigations.

Concluded the GAO's secret report: If "controls are to be continued, FEA will have to substantially strengthen its compliance and enforcement program at all levels."

Footnote: Under the GAO's prodding, the FEA has assigned 143 auditors to the oil producers, but the unit will not be in operation until December 31. Ribicoff plans hearings by his committee sometime in December.

Native American Thanksgiving In Rosendale

The United Reformed Church in Bloomington staged a replica of the first Thanksgiving "Wednesday night at the church in Bloomington by inviting members of the Association of Native Americans to worship service. The native Americans opened and closed the service with the Anapray Song (Luguna) which also included communion with fried bread (typical Indian food) and grapes (fruit of the vine) as elements of sharing. The Rev. Nicholas M. Miles, pastor of the church which services the town of Rosendale, is an Algonquin from the Pamunky-Mattaponi tribes of Virginia (Freeman photo).

Former Freeman Employee Is Attacked

KINGSTON
An elderly Henry Street man was injured Thursday night in a mugging on Cedar Street when attacked by two robbers who beat him and made off with a watch and a wallet containing about $20.

The victim was identified as John Hartman, 75, of 79 Henry Street. He was treated at Kingston Hospital for bruises sustained in the attack and later released.

The two suspects were apparently scared off by a resident who came out of his house after Hartman started calling for help. City detectives said the suspects were both described as blacks, about five feet, five inches tall, wearing dark clothing. One of the suspects was said to sport a mustache. The attack occurred shortly after 10 p.m. The silver watch taken was inscribed "Freeman 20 Year Club," police said. Hartman was a former Daily Freeman employee.

KINGSTON
Although there is little the Democratic members of the Ulster County Legislature can do to halt passage of the GOP's new reapportionment plan creating nine instead of eight legislative districts, some Democrats are planning to petition for a special referendum which would allow the voters of the county to decide whether or not they want the new plan as proposed.

The Republican plan is virtually assured of success because a simple majority of the 33-member board is required for passage and the legislature is presently comprised of 21 Republicans and 12 Democrats.

Previous moves on the part of the Democrats to advance a single-member district reapportionment plan fell by the wayside when it was determined that their proposal did not comply with the one-man-one-vote Supreme Court concept which is based on the 1970 census.

So, although the minority party cannot now put forth its own plan, it would like to at least halt the GOP proposal, according to Democratic County Chairman Harold Brown.

The Republican plan will come up before a public hearing Monday at 7:45 p.m. in the County Office Building. It will be presented in the form of a local law.

According to county law if the action of the board is a local law, it is subject to a referendum within 45 days after its approval by the governing board. A petition signed by at least 10 percent of the voters who cast votes at the last gubernatorial election must be filed with the county clerk requesting the question be submitted to a vote of the people at a general or special election.

If the Democrats should succeed in securing the required number of signatures, about 5,700, the vote would have to be taken at a special election because the legislators will be running for election at the next general election.

The cost of such a special election is estimated at least $30,000.

It is expected that following the hearings on the reapportionment plan, the county board will convene in special session to vote on the local law.

Actually there will be two public hearings on the subject, one at 7:45 p.m. and another at 8. The first is a routine matter which will recind a 1967 law which provided for the service by town supervisors, town board members and other town officials on the County Legislature.

The second hearing will deal specifically with Local Law Eight providing for a plan of reapportionment (in this case the GOP plan.)

The makeup of the districts under the proposed new plan is as follows:

• District One—Wawarsing, Denning and Hard-burgh, three legislators.
• District Two—Shandaken, Woodstock and the Town of Kingston, two legislators.

• District Three—Saugerties, four legislators.
• District Four—City of Kingston, six legislators.
• District Five—Olive, Hurley, Town of Ulster, five legislators.
• District Six—Esopus, Rosendale, three legislators.

• District Seven—Rochester, Marletown, two legislators.

• District Eight—Shawangunk, Gardiner, New Platz, four legislators.

• District Nine—Lloyd, Plattekill, Marlboro, four legislators.

Communism Too Puritanical

PEKING (UPI) — Get them to one side in a crowded room and the men and women who man America's legation in Peking will tell you the thing they miss most is sex. Oh, not the extramarital or beddy-bye sort of sex. No, what they miss are such life-ticklers as women's skirts, a low neckline, a meaningful wink.

Communism tends to be puritanical. And the Chinese are zealous at it. Here the women dress as the men — the blue smock or neck-buttoned tunic and the full trousers.

The haircuts are pretty unisex too.

Peking has few billboards. But the women on them are as well bundled as the children toddling in human trains around the city.

"Did you go to the Chinese folk music show last night," a young diplomat asked me. "Well, did you see the girl playing that stringed thing in the orchestra? Wow!"

The girl had worn a skirt. It was almost floor length but it revealed a shapely ankle. It was the only revealing moment the diplomat has spotted in six months in Peking.

He, like the wives, also did not mince words when asking travelers if they had any paperbacks to spare. "We're very short of books. What we want is a pornographic novel," the diplomat said.

"Hard core, if you please," one wife said.

Donald Rumsfeld, President Ford's chief of staff, is a camera bug. With Ford in Japan, South Korea and Vladivostok, Rumsfeld often reached into the right pocket of his tan coat and plucked out his 10-year-old pocket camera.

The camera stays in the pocket when Rumsfeld is a chief actor in one of the little protocol dramas unfolding in foreign VIP travel. But in Japan, he snapped such events as a judo match. In Seoul, he leaped from his motorcade and joined the photographers massing around Ford in the mob scene greeting of the President.

In China, the Rumsfeld shutter has clicked in the Imperial Palace, at the Ming Tombs and on the Great Wall, where Rumsfeld told me the little camera has produced hundreds of pictures of his family and landmarks of travel including some Russian trawlers.

"I was out with the fleet a few months ago, on a German ship. I spotted some Soviet trawlers (trailing the Allied fleet) and jammed the camera lens against a telescope and clicked. Got some fine pictures of Russian trawlers," he said.

Tips for visitors to Peking: Eat early, since all the restaurants in town shut by 9 p.m....Some of the best antique shopping in the world is in an old alley in Peking. Tell your Chinese guide or taxi driver to take you to Lio Li Chung. Along that winding alley are four stores selling antiques approved for export. Included are ancient scrolls, vases and other art works. The prices are not cheap but there are bargains — multi-colored rubbings for as low as $1.

Population Gain in US Near Zero

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — U.S. population growth has fallen below one per cent a year and appears to be dropping toward zero, according to a United Nations report.

The Economic and Social Council put U.S. population growth at 0.9 per cent annually for the first four years of the 1970s — a drop from 1.3 per cent a year in the previous decade.

The council said young American couples anticipated an average of 2.3 children in a family, just above the 2.2 replacement level. It also reported a slowdown in immigration.

The United States, the report said, appeared "to be approaching a natural rate of increase close to zero."

Although much of the council's data was more than a year old, the report said the last two years had seen some reduction in violent crime in American cities.

The report said the increase in crime at the start of the decade was due to a rise in heroin use, but "it is possible that drug addiction in the United States has passed its peak."

The council said one reason for the drop in population growth was an increase in Americans living alone. It said the number of persons alone rose from 11.9 million in 1970 to 14 million in 1973.

Another significant factor in the drop in population growth was a change in the distribution of age groups.

The report said the number of children under five years of age dropped from 8.9 per cent in 1968 to 7.8 per cent in 1973, while the proportion of people over 65 rose from 9.5 per cent in 1965 to 10.1 in 1973.

It reported a sharp increase in the number of Americans who had moved from central city areas to the suburbs in the past decade.

The report put the population of the suburbs at 69 million compared with 55 million 10 years earlier, while in the central city areas the increase was from 58 million to 61 million.

DACCA (UPI) — Prime Minister Mujibur Rahman mobilized a giant civilian and military relief force today to aid victims of a severe cyclone that swept across the southeast coast of Bangladesh.

The 90 mile-an-hour winds and 10-foot-high tidal waves battered the coast Thursday, heavily damaging the famine-racked nation's precarious rice crop.

Initial reports said at least five persons died in the storm, which submerged low-lying coastal areas near the port of Chittagong and off-shore islands.

The Storm Warning Center in Dacca said the wind and water destroyed or damaged houses in the region and cut communications lines. Officials said the winter rice crop, which was almost ready for harvest, was badly damaged.

Heavy flooding in Bangladesh last summer virtually destroyed the past season's rice crop. The government said the previous damage contributed to the starvation deaths of at least 27,000 persons.

Sheikh Mujibur Rahman, trying to head off a new catastrophe, ordered civilian and military authorities to Dacca, for rescue work on outlying islands and more ships were expected to join the relief effort.

The cyclone was the 15th to hit the area in the past 14 years. The worst was in 1970 when official figures showed at least 300,000 persons died. Winds during the 1970 cyclone hit 130 miles an hour.

Since 1891, a total of 135 cyclones have battered the impoverished region.

mobilize for rescue and relief work. Two naval ships left Chittagong, 175 miles southeast of Bangladesh, a three-year-old nation of 80 million persons, was born during the 1971 Indo-Pakistani War, which asserted India's dominance over the Asian subcontinent.

The Bengalis in Pakistan's eastern region declared independence early in 1971, but had to wait until India's victory at the end of the year before taking over effective control of their new country.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market opened mixed in moderately active trading today on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average was up 0.62 at 619.37 shortly after the opening. But declines led advances, 201 to 144, among the 503 issues crossing the tape.

Turnover amounted to around 460,000 shares.

Right after the market opened, trendsetting First National City Bank of New York announced a change in its prime rate formula, allowing it to leave unchanged at 10 per cent the interest it charges key corporate customers. It was the first time in eight weeks the bank has not lowered its rate.

Seniors Party

KINGSTON

An exhibition by the LeFooters dance group and a buffet supper are slated to be presented at the monthly meeting and Christmas party for members of the Central Senior Citizens Association to be held Tuesday, Dec. 3, at 6 p.m. at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Kingston.

The nominating committee will present its selection of officers for 1975 at the meeting.

According to Joe Kelly, president of the organization, the association, which is a year old, plans to expand its activities in the future.

Kelly commended Alexander Yosman, coordinator for senior citizens' activities, Andrew J. Murphy of the Kingston Recreation Department, and the Kingston Musicians Union for their aid during the year.

Bomb Depot Explodes

At Da Nang Airbase

SAIGON (UPI) — A bomb depot used by government warplanes to strike Communist strongholds exploded at Da Nang airbase today, injuring more than 100 persons, 50 of them school children.

The first explosions at the airbase 370 miles north of Saigon went off at mid-morning. Military officers said the blasts were still occurring at mid-afternoon.

Initial reports said at least 95 civilians, including the children, and 10 soldiers were wounded, but that no one was killed.

The military command said the cause of the explosions was not known.

The injured civilians were residents from nearby Hoa Vang district capital, located at the southern end of the three-mile twin runway of the U.S. built airbase.

The Saigon command said houses in Hoa Vang town and a textile factory were heavily damaged by the explosions, but that military equipment was not touched.

The wounded children were in an elementary school when the explosion started, the officers said.

The military command also reported a government helicopter carrying four Viet Cong and two government officers on a liaison flight to the de facto Communist capital at Loc Ninh, 75 miles north of Saigon, was fired on Thursday by Communist ground fire.

The helicopter was not hit. Pilots said they ducked the fire on the approaches of Loc Ninh and later returned safely to Saigon.

In a political development, President Nguyen Van Thieu has overhauled his cabinet in an attempt to shore up South

Vietnam's sagging economy.

Thieu's cabinet shakeup went largely unnoticed Thursday because of violent demonstrations in the Saigon suburbs and a massive show of force by police in the downtown area.

Some 3,000 to 4,000 Roman Catholics hurled stones at riot police at two suburban churches near Tan Son Nhut

Air Base, but were penned up inside the churchyards by barbed wire barricades.

Police fired tiny pieces of steel wire from slingshots at the crowd, and at least 40 persons on both sides were reported injured.

The demonstration was in support of three newspaper publishers charged with libel for printing allegations of corruption against Thieu and his family.

The publishers had been scheduled to go on trial Thursday, but the proceedings were postponed until next February, apparently to avert more serious protests.

The throngs of police in downtown Saigon stopped many potential protesters from joining the demonstration.

Local Miss America Pageant Group Names Director

George Leombruno of 30 Austin Avenue, Saugerties, has been named executive director of the Miss Ulster County Pageant at a recent Pageant Board of Directors session, and entries for the 1975 title were officially declared open.

Leombruno, an experienced pageant official, succeeds Robert L. Schnell of Saugerties, who has served in that capacity for several years.

Al Cawein, publicity director and business manager, who made the announcement said Schnell was a prominent member of the Pageant Finance Committee which in the past two years was successful enough to increase the total scholarships to $1,800. The winner of the Miss Ulster County title receives a $1,000 scholarship. First runner-up, $500 and second runner-up $350. These scholarships are among the highest awarded in the state under a Miss America franchise.

Leombruno served as chairman of last year's Entries Committee and served as pageant show producer for the two previous pageants.

Publicity Director Cawein also announced that Miss Frances Ilona Tomshaw of Kingston, Miss Ulster County of 1973, will serve on his publicity staff as press secretary. Miss Tomshaw succeeds Beth Offermann Fisher, a former Miss Saugerties titleholder, who served on the publicity staff for the past several years.

The 1975 Scholarship Pageant will be scheduled for a date in the Spring.

Committee appointments and other staff assignments and responsibilities will be announced by Leombruno.

The Pageant offers cash scholarships to the first three winners to any school of higher learning or college of the winner's choice.

The Scholarship Pageant is open to any unmarried young woman who lives, attends school or is employed in Ulster or Greene County. The winner is eligible to participate for the Miss New York State Pageant Crown, which also offers substantial scholarships. Both the local and the State Pageant are preliminaries to the Miss America Pageant held each fall in Atlantic City, N.J.

Additional information is available by calling Leombruno or his wife, Terri, who is pageant secretary, 30 Austin Avenue, Saugerties.

Leombruno observed that the winners are not only those who win scholarship awards. Every young lady that participates gains in poise, talent abilities and broadens her acquaintanceship with people who can further her business or professional career.

Miss Debralea Arlene Buchan of Saugerties is this year's titleholder. She will crown the winner at the 1975 pageant at a time and place to be announced.

MR. AND MRS. BERT LESSARD

Married In Plane 25000 ft. Above Red Hook

Throughout the ages, couples in love have searched for unusual settings at which to exchange their nuptial vows. Men and women have married in underground caves, at picturesque waterfalls, on horseback.

Trudy Jaklis and Bert Lessard recently selected a Cherokee seven-seater airplane, 2500 feet above Red Hook.

Mr. and Mrs. Lessard originally met at a Christmas party while they were student pilots at Sky park Airport. Mr. Lessard is employed by New York State Park Police, Taconic Region, and Tobord Aviation Sky-park Airport in Red Hook. Mrs. Lessard, who is proprietor of Trudy's Hair and Skin Care Salon of Red Hook, is also an instructor at Red Hook Central School's Continuing Education Program where she teaches Yoga.

The Rev. Pastor Haase officiated at the double ring ceremony November 16. The couple wrote their own vows for the ceremony.

Serving as honor attendants were Sandy Brancieand and Carol Canning.

The bride wore an off-white gabardine pantsuit with a hot pink jersey silk blouse and carried a pink rose.

A reception was given at Skypark Terminal.

UCCC's Cabaret Theatre Production Set

"Room Service," the 1930's farce about getting a play on Broadway, will be Ulster County Community College's first cabaret theatre production.

Featuring sandwiches and beer, the production is to be presented for six performances beginning Friday, Dec. 6.

The play, written in 1937, is one of the great comedy successes of all time.

It involves a nimble-witted producer, living on credit with 22 actors in a Broadway hotel, who finds a backer with $15,000 then loses him and desperately attempts to keep anyone from finding out so that he can get his show on.

He does, in spite of the most ludicrous and unexpected obstacles.

Staged with the audience sitting at tables on three sides, the UCCC production has been costumed in the thirties, including a return to the hair styles of that period.

Cast as the wily producer is Neal Knapp, while playing his director—equally adept at bunko—is Brian Benben. A flustered hotel manager is played by Robin Nagy, and his supervising director—a blustering businessman who sees no humor in a $1,200 unpaid bill—is portrayed by Dennis Lee.

Tim dellly plays the innocent playwright who arrives unexpectedly from Oswego, N.Y. and quickly learns how to play sick and then to feign death so that the show may go on.

His girlfriend, Hilda, is played by Marie Iannotti, and George Young is cast as the backer who backs but after discovering a doctor bound and gagged in the producer's bathroom.

Playing the doctor is Connie M. White and cast as a southern senator who saves all in the end is Charles Hayes.

Others in the cast are Mark Knudsen, a Russian waiter who used to be an actor in the old country and becomes the star of the producer's show;

Steve Babiuch, a man with many ideas, none of which work; Kathleen Langton, the star of the producer's show who must work as a secretary to avoid starving; Harold Stevenson, who arrives to repossess the author's typewriter, and Tom Joscelyn, a bank messenger who brings the sad news that the backer has stopped payment on his check.

The show is to be performed Dec. 6 and 7, then again Dec. 11 through 14 at 8:15 p. m.

Reservations for those desiring refreshments may be made by calling the college. The cabaret will open each evening at 7 p.m.

Principals at the recent meeting of Xi Alpha Omega Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority included (l-r) Miss Betty McManus, chairman of coordinating committee; Mrs.

Busy Season Planned by Xi Alpha Omega Chapter; Exemplar Degree Conferred

The Xi Alpha Omega Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority held its regular monthly meeting recently at the home of Mrs. Richard Hamsher, Kingston. At this meeting the Exemplar Degree was conferred upon Mrs. George Stone. Mrs. Stone has completed four years of active membership in a Ritual of Jewels chapter, and was, therefore, eligible to receive to the next highest degree in Beta Sigma International Sorority, Mrs. Jack Kiegle, vice-president and Rush chairman, was the officiating officer at the ceremony.

Mrs. Hamsher reported that the Christmas Service Project for the group would be a donation to radio station WGHQ's Christmas Fund. Members are requested to make their donations to the treasurer as soon as possible.

Mrs. Hiram Driscoll, social committee chairman, announced that the Chapter's Christmas party will be held at the home of the president, Mrs. James L. Cleveland, 80 Valentine Avenue, Kingston, on Tuesday, December 10, at 8:00 p.m. At this time

"Secret Sister's" will be revealed and gifts will be exchanged. Mrs. John Clark and Mrs. James Lynady, members on leave of absence, will be invited to attend.

Miss Betty McManus, coordinating committee chairman, announced that a meeting of the three Beta Sigma Phi chapters in Kingston will be held on January 14, 1975 at 8:00 p.m. at the Heritage Savings Bank.

Mrs. Frank Martino, dance committee chairman, announced that tickets are now available for the annual Beta Sigma Phi Valentine Dance to be held February 15, 1975 at the Holiday Inn. Music will be by Charlie Lee's Band. This annual social event will be co-hosted by two of the Kingston chapters, Xi Alpha Omega and Eta Eta. Tickets are available from any member.

Other members in attendance at the meeting were: Mrs. John Baxter, Mrs. Richard Bradley, Miss Blanche Cartier, Mrs. Robert Dunn, Mrs. Roy Gonyea, Mrs. Richard Langton, Mrs. Louis Mariotti, Mrs. Anthony Pagliaro, Mrs. Ronald Rifenburg and Mrs. Peggy Thatcher.

Dr. Lamb

Chest pains need medical attention

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a white male, age 64, weight 190, and height six feet two. I have been active in sports all my life particularly the contact sports. My present occupation is football and lacrosse coach. I can honestly say that I am in pretty good health, particularly in reference to diet. I will say, however, I am not very careful in reference to rain, cold and snow, having spent some bad days playing, officiating and coaching. I seldom wear a hat.

For the past three or four weeks I have been pestered with a nagging burning sensation, at times right in the middle of my chest. This sensation seems to originate just below the breastbone and work right up to my throat where it seems to linger a few seconds and then passes away. This sensation at times will cause my upper chest to become sort of tight and sore, sometimes it will go straight through to the back. This sensation will come on at any time, while cutting the lawn, reading or watching TV. I do not smoke cigarettes. I do, however, smoke three or four pipes each night. I never smoke during the day. I drink an occasional highball before dinner.

I have a yearly physical each September. It includes an X ray, ECG (heart tracing) and other tests. So far all have been normal. At times I become terribly depressed and don't seem to pay attention to what some people say, particularly my wife. Would you say old age is finally catching up with me? I would appreciate your comments.

DEAR READER — There is no way to be certain what you have from your history alone. BUT, you and anyone who has chest pain should seek medical attention at once. I don't mean in a day or two or a week or two, but right when it happens. Call the doctor when you have the pain. If you can't find the doctor go to the nearest hospital emergency room. Get someone to drive you, if possible.

I don't mean to be an alarmist, but unexplained chest pain can be the first sign of a heart attack. These are so common in our society that you have to regard it this way. Also, the best chance you have of surviving a heart attack is by getting early attention. That means you can't sit around home wondering if it is indigestion or a heart attack. Call your doctor or get to the hospital.

You could be having indigestion and esophageal spasm, but your history is compatible with heart pain. You can have heart pain any time. You do not have to be exerting yourself. A good many people have heart attacks in bed or while riding in a car or while being inactive. The electrocardiogram

(ECG) can be perfectly normal until the attack occurs. It shows changes in the heart muscle that occur after the artery is suddenly blocked off.

Keeping your weight down, avoiding cigarette smoking, and eating the right foods all help in preventing heart attacks, or at least delaying them. But people still get heart trouble, even when living a fairly healthy life by most standards. If everyone who develops symptoms which you describe would seek medical attention at once a lot could be done to cut down the per cent of deaths caused by heart attacks. Go see your doctor.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of The Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on cholesterol, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for the "Cholesterol" booklet. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Indoor Plants to Decorate Bathrooms

With a little planning, almost any bathroom can become a striking "Garden Bath." The wide variety of live, green plants available today makes the garden look a dramatic and practical new decorating idea for bathrooms, according to the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau.

To determine innovations and trends in bathroom decor, the Bureau surveyed fixture manufacturers, home builders, interior designers, plumbing contractors and homemakers. One of the most popular trends, the Bureau found, is that of bringing the garden look into the bathroom.

To assist homemakers in planning a bathroom, a unique planning guide, "The Gerber Garden Bath Book," has been created by a fixture manufacturer in cooperation with interior decorators and plant experts.

New Machine Checks Your Health

A new electromechanical machine gives a life insurance applicant a routine physical examination and evaluation without having to undress.

The machine, presently used by one of the nation's largest life insurers, "examines" by automatically measuring the applicant for height, weight and other physical factors, thus providing the "bodemetric" portion of his information tape when the operator presses a button. The applicant is then seated in a chair, electrodes are attached to the skin, and information such as electrocardiograph data and blood pressure is gathered.

The information tape with all the pertinent data in coded form is then forwarded to the company underwriting department together with a urine specimen and a brief medical history.

The health data—obtained at a great saving in time and convenience—is essentially the same as that required by examining physicians on applicants under 55, requesting insurance up to $150,000.

TODAY'S TREASURES

Porcelain worth search

By Jean Barnes

Nostalgia has added a new dimension to the young marrieds' budget. It's fashionable to shop the second-hand stores and flea markets for household furnishings.

It's even possible for this year's bride to accumulate a good set of porcelain dinnerware without a tremendous outlay of cash. It will take some study and judicious buying but it can be done.

This is the porcelain that was sold in jewelry stores, department stores and even dime stores at the turn of the century. Much of it came from Carlsbad (or Karlsbad) Czechoslovakia, and was made for import to the United States.

Other porcelain centers in Europe made porcelain for export. You also will find Austria, Bavaria or the name of other European countries on the back of each piece. This "country of origin" label on porcelain means that it was manufactured after 1891 due to tariff legislation requirements.

Often these wares, many of good quality, were imported without decoration. A 100-piece set of Bavarian white porcelain imported for decoration by the amateur or the professional sold for about $40 in the 1920s.

Among the names of importers you might find are Bawo & Dotter, C.L. Dwenger, Heinrichs, Lazarus & Rosenfeldt, Hamburger & Company, Rudolstadt (L. Straus & Sons), P.H. Leonard, and Thayer & Chandler.

These firms often marked their wares in such a manner as to cause confusion to today's collectors. Heinrichs used the initials "H.C." Haviland wares were not made in Carlsbad, Czechoslovakia.

There is also a Bavarian china marked "Sevres" which is no relation to the famous French porcelain by that name. Royal Beyreuth and Rosenthal are two other Bavarian firms importing porcelain during that period.

This doesn't begin to cover the field of today's collectible porcelain. You won't want to overlook that produced domestically or imported from Japan and China. You should have no problem finding a pattern that appeals to you.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Austrian porcelain gravy boat dates from the turn of the century. Patterns were pirated and copied so that today's collectors find it possible to mix and match pieces.

By Abigail Van Buren

1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: As a lawyer, may I comment on the dilemma of the divorcee who didn't know what to say when a man asked for sex outside of marriage?

She should give him a calm, lawyer-like answer; he asking her to trust him with her body. She is running the risk of an unwanted pregnancy. What is HE risking?

Shouldn't the risk be equal? Why doesn't he give her $1,000 in cash to put into her savings account, and at the end of nine months, if there is no unwanted baby, she can cheerfully return his $1,000.

If she does become pregnant, she can use the money for an abortion, or partial support of the child. In that way, he at least risks something. It is clearly unfair to ask a girl to have sex, and should something go wrong, all the risk be hers.

While the risk can never be made truly equal, the deposit of $1,000 to her account before sex would make it a little more equal.

I wonder how many men who would ask a girl to risk her body are willing to risk some of their money?

J.M.S.: PLANDOME, N.Y.
DEAR J.M.S.: If your proposition is truly "lawyer-like," the legal profession is in trouble. The girl's un-lawyer-like response could be: "if you really want to monkey around, I'm not settling for peanuts!"

DEAR ABBY: I am a 20-year-old fellow who has always liked older women. (I mean women about 45 or 50. I really groove on gray hair, and a woman with middle-age spread.)

I could never get turned on by girls my own age, and I have tried. Do you think there's something wrong with me?

When I was 17, I became very much attracted to one of my high school teachers (she was about 40) and she told me I should have a long talk with the school psychologist, but I never did.

I've heard of men marrying women 20 years older than themselves, and I can't see where there is anything terribly wrong with that.

Please tell me if you think I have a problem, and if I have, how serious is it? Thanks.

Don't tell me I am searching for my mother, because she died when I was a baby and you can't miss what you've never had.

LIKES THEM OLDER
DEAR ABBY: Yup. You have a problem. Your High School teacher gave you some good advice. You need professional help, and I suggest you get it. (P.S. And who said you can't miss what you've never had? It's possible to miss that the most.)

DEAR ABBY: Six years ago, I married a handsome, trim man with whom I'd been in love for three years. The first four years of our married life was wonderful. The last two have been something else.

He started to gain weight, and kept piling it on until now he looks like a barrel of lard. When I try to tell him it's unhealthy and unsightly, he gets angry and refuses to listen. He is so gross it makes me sick to look at him. I no longer want him to make love to me. He's repulsive.

Have You Ever Washed an Airplane?

But as the Marines in Japan said — "Don't forget your ladder!"

I'm glad I only have to worry about washing my car! It's easy with a pail of water and a cotton string mop.

Heloise

Dear Heloise: A bright idea I have! When I go shopping on a rainy day, I take along an old plastic table cloth and cover up my grocery cart when I take my groceries out to the car.

Keeps them nice and dry. Mrs. A.D.

Dear Heloise: On painted porch steps, put bath tub nonslip strips for added safety in wet weather. Especially helpful for elderly or handicapped. Mrs. Pat Rodeffer

Dear Heloise: I'm a person who can't stand to part with anything someone else could possibly use. On the other hand, I can't stand the clutter of things I don't really use taking up space.

My solution? I placed a cardboard box in the back of my coat closet. Now as clothes are out-grown, small house-hold items not needed, and toys and miscellaneous items tired of, I place them in the box.

Family and friends are welcome to see if they can use anything and I don't have to find places to store things. + + +

Dear Heloise: Have a little hint you might be interested in! My mother was visiting me

Three weeks ago, I gave him a ultimatum. Either lose 50 pounds in the next six months, or I'm leaving. Apparently he didn't take me seriously because he's still drinking and eating like a herd of horses.

I'm not asking for advice. I want to go on record in your column, and I'll see that he reads it.

MEANS BUSINESS
DEAR MEANS: You're on record, but if you really love him, You'll help him. An ultimatum is no help. He needs a physical examination, a good diet program, and lots of love and moral support from you.

CONFIDENTIAL TO AN-NAMARIE: One woman's left-overs can be another woman's banquet. Now is the time to talk turkey.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

one day and as she started the dishwashing, she had to open a new bottle of dish detergent with the snip-off top.

Rather than snip the new top, she just transferred the old top to the new bottle—no searching for scissors.

Mrs. Kenneth Robbins + + +

Why didn't I think of that? Heloise

+ + +

Dear Heloise: After wearing false eyelashes, I have the problem of removing the adhesive along the base of my lashes without pulling my own lashes out.

Then I tried rubbing on baby oil with my fingers and the adhesive plus the eye make-up came right off.

Just wipe with tissue and your make-up and adhesive is gone.

Dallas Bombs Redskins in Final Seconds

By JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Sports Writer

For most of his rookie year, Clint Longley has been simply the "Mad Bomber" or "Snake Hunter" to his Dallas Cowboy teammates. He changed that Thursday.

Longley took over at quarterback in the third period when Roger Staubach was knocked dizzy and threw two touchdown passes, the last a 50-yarder to Drew Pearson with just 28 seconds left, to lift the Cowboys to a 24-23 upset of the Washington Redskins.

The victory kept the Cowboys' slim wild card playoff hopes alive in the National Conference East and prevented them from being eliminated from post-season competition for the first time in nine years. St. Louis leads the division at 9-2, Washington now is 8-4 and Dallas 7-5.

Longley, a 6-foot-1, 195-pounder, picked up the "Mad Bomber" tag in training camp when he almost skulled Coach Tom Landry in a supervising tower with a pass and kept the sidelines loose with his wild throws. The "Snake Hunter" tag went on when people found out his off-season occupation—he hunts rattlesnakes.

But Thursday Longley was all quarterback. Entering the game with the Cowboys trailing 16-3, he threw a 35-yard TD pass to tight end Billy Joe Dupree and set up Walt Garrison's one-yard run to lift Dallas to a 17-16 advantage. Duane Thomas' 19-yard run rallied Washington to a 23-17 lead before Longley hit Pearson on the 15 and the fleet receiver sped in for the TD. Efran Herrera's conversion provided the margin of victory.

"They told me to grab my helmet and get in there," said Longley, who became Staubach's backup when Craig Morton was traded to the New York Giants last month. "I had to find my helmet first."

"Nobody had me deep," said Pearson, explaining the winning score. "Longley did just a great job. He stayed in the pocket, read his keys and hit the open man. He was superb."

The Redskins' last hope for a comeback was wiped out when Billy Kilmer fumbled trying to pass and Harvey Martin recovered for Dallas.

In the other Thanksgiving Day game, Otis Armstrong carried 24 times for 144 yards to become the first NFL player this season to crack the 1,000-yard barrier as the Denver Broncos beat the Detroit Lions 31-27.

Armstrong, a second-year back from Purdue, boosted his total to 1,082 yards and scored once in a three-touchdown burst in the third period that lifted the Broncos ahead.

Jon Keyworth scored twice for Denver on one-yard runs and Charley Johnson flipped a one-yard TD pass to Riley Odoms. Greg Landry threw 23 yards to Albie Taylor and Levi Johnson returned a fumble 55 yards to highlight Detroit's scoring.

The loss left Detroit at 6-6 and all but killed the Lions' playoff chances after they had pulled to within a game of Minnesota in the NFC Central. Denver is 6-5-1 and has a slim chance in the AFC for a wild card slot.

In Sunday action, Kansas City is at St. Louis, New England at Oakland, Los Angeles at Atlanta, Houston at Pittsburgh, New Orleans at Minnesota, Baltimore at Buffalo, Green Bay at Philadelphia, San Diego at the New York Jets, the New York Giants at Chicago and San Francisco at Cleveland. Cincinnati is at Miami Monday night.

George Allen: My Toughest Loss

IRVING, Tex. (UPI) — Tom Landry summed it up by saying "football is an incredible game."

George Allen called the event, "the toughest loss I ever had."

And Roger Staubach, in effect, told Diron Talbert to go jump in the nearest river, or worse.

In one of those fiction type affairs Thanksgiving Day, an understudy known only to certain folks in Texas, came in to replace the dizzied leading man, rallied the home team once and then, in the final seconds, threw one of those wild bombs that somehow found its mark and won the game.

In this particular case that bomb gave Dallas a 24-23 win over Washington in perhaps the bitterest rivalry currently running in the NFL.

The understudy was Clint Longley, a young rattlesnake hunter who came to Dallas by way of a circuitous route from Abilene Christian College. His NFL playing career officially began Thursday with 10 minutes left in the third period with Dallas behind 16-3 and Staubach wobbling to the bench, the victim of a solid hit courtesy of Redskins linebacker Dave Robinson.

"They told me to grab my helmet and get in there," said Longley, who became Staubach's backup after Craig Morton was traded to the New York Giants last month. "I had to find my helmet first."

Longley proceeded to throw a 35-yard touchdown pass to Billy Joe Dupree and then guided Dallas on a 70-yard touchdown march that ended in a one-yard run by Walt Garrison to put the Cowboys in front by a point.

But after those heroics, Duane Thomas—a ghost of Thanksgiving past for Dallas—scored his second touchdown of the day on a 19-yard run to put Washington ahead.

Little else could have been expected from Longley, drafted by Cincinnati early this year in the NFL supplemental draft and then traded to Dallas for a sixth-round draft choice. But he had something else—a 50-yard touchdown pass to Drew Pearson with 28 seconds left that gave the Cowboys the victory and prevented the Redskins from clinching a playoff berth.

Dallas still has a slight hope for the playoffs left—a hope that could become a reality only if it wins its remaining two games and the Redskins lose both of theirs. "Football is an incredible game," said Landry. "This is what makes it so unbelievable at times. Clint Longley has incredible ability. He just knows where his receivers are."

record with the 50-yard bomb. He also kicked three pointers of 21, 31, and 38 yards.

Wide receiver Jim Eaise, the game's goat in the first half with two fumbled punts, caught a pair of touchdown passes in the second half as Penn State pulled away from the 16th-ranked Panthers, whose record dropped to 7-4.

"I said, 'Hey Jim, come here and look me in the eye,'" Paterno said after Eaise's second fumble led to Pitt's only touchdown. "He said 'I'm okay coach.' He's got a lot of poise."

Eaise got behind two Pitt defenders for a 23-yard TD pass from Tom Shuman in the third period and hauled in a 35-yarder in the final period. Shuman, the No. 2 passer in Penn State history, completed 9-of-17 passes for 165 yards.

"Those were both individual letdowns," Pitt Coach Johnny Majors said. "We had the right defense call, a zone."

"And that 6 ft touchdown was just ridiculous."

Majors was referring to Penn State's final touchdown on the kickoff following Bahr's last field goal. Pitt's Allan Webster fumbled at his own 11 and linebacker Tom Williams fell on the ball in the end zone.

The Panthers, who had called the game the "Turkey Bowl" to reflect their disappointment at being overlooked by post-season bowls, had a 7-6 halftime lead on Tony Dorsett's two-yard touchdown which came six plays after Eaise fumbled at the Penn State 30.

"We didn't block anybody in the second half," Majors said. "They came out blocking crisp. It's all a matter of learning how to win. They know how and we're still learning. But we're a step farther than last year because we won one more game."

Mutual Admiration Society

Dallas Cowboys' receiver Drew Pearson (L) and rookie quarterback Clint Longley (R) congratulate each other after Pearson caught a desperation 50 yard touchdown pass with 28 seconds left Thursday to give Dallas a 24-23 victory over Washington at Texas Stadium. (UPI)

Bahr Expands Options

Penn State's Booter Too Much for Panthers

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — When Chris Bahr missed four field goals in a 7-6 loss to Navy early this year, he thought his future as a professional athlete would have to be in soccer.

Bahr, an All America soccer player at Penn State, changed his mind Thanksgiving night after making four field goals against archrival Pittsburgh in a 31-10 Penn State victory on national television.

"Now I'll consider any option," he said. Bahr used to roll into the sack at two or three in the morning on game days, but the 160-pound field goal kicker never got any complaints from his coach.

"He sometimes plays soccer on Fridays and he does 't join the team until the early hours of the morning if we're away," Nittany Lion Coach Joe Paterno said Thursday night. "When we played Iowa, he had to catch a plane at midnight and didn't catch up with us until two in the morning."

Paterno said he thought the strain made Bahr less consistent than John Reihner, Penn State's other placement kicker, so most of the season he was used only on long attempts.

"I decided to use him the whole way through tonight because when he walked into that 50-yarder on the first try, I knew he was on," Paterno said.

The season-ending victory gave the Cotton-Bowl bound Lions a 9-2 record and assured them of their fourth straight Lambert Trophy, symbol of the Eastern football championship. It was also Penn State's ninth straight win over Pitt, and broke a 35-35 tie in the series, which dates back to 1893.

Bahr, voted the game's outstanding player, set a school record for most field goals in a game and tied his own distance

WFL's Semis In Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — The Memphis Southmen take on the Florida Blazers tonight for the right to meet the Birmingham Americans in the World Football League's first World Bowl on Dec. 5.

Southmen officials expect about 20,000 fans in the 50,000-seat Memphis Memorial Stadium for the final WFL playoff game which will be televised nationally at 8 p.m. EST.

Win or lose, the Blazers can expect to gain one thing from the matchup—their first paychecks since the middle of September.

After expenses are paid, 70 per cent of the gate receipts from tonight's contest will go into a players' pool. The winners get 60 per cent of the pool and the losers 40 per cent.

"The players hope to see a bit crowd," Memphis Coach John McVay said. "Both for the gate receipts and because they like to play in front of big home crowds. But if they had to, they'd play for nothing to win the championship."

Play for nothing is what the Blazers have done for more than two months. A deal that was expected to give them their money this week fell through.

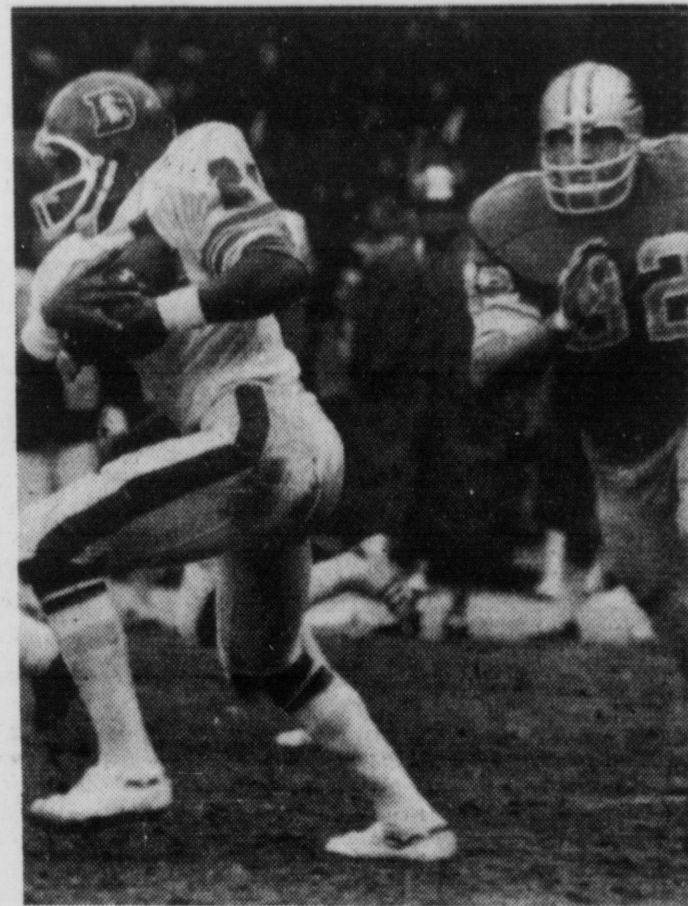

"We're mad now," Florida quarterback Bob Davis said. "The majority feel we're never going to get paid."

"We're going to take it out on Memphis," Blazers Coach Jack Pardee said.

The Southmen, who haven't missed a paycheck in the league's inaugural season and finished with the best regular-season record of 17-3, have the advantage of an extra week's rest going into the game.

Memphis and Birmingham, which defeated Hawaii 22-19 Wednesday night to earn a bowl slot, received first-round byes in the playoffs because they finished one-two in the regular season standings. Memphis won the Central Division title and Birmingham was second with a 15-5 mark.

The Blazers, who won the league's Eastern Division championship with a 14-6 slate, defeated Philadelphia in last week's quarterfinal playoff round. Some Florida players thought the game was unneeded.

The Chase . . .

Bronco running back Otis Armstrong (24) is chased by Lions' Ken Sanders (82) as he races for a 10 yard gain Thursday during first quarter in Detroit. Armstrong became first NFL player to crack 1,000 yard mark this season by picking up 144 yards in 24 carries to lead Denver to 31-27 victory. (UPI)

Foster Was Bit Tired And With Good Reason

By United Press International

Fred Foster was a bit tired Thursday night and the Cleveland Cavaliers' forward had a right to be.

The former Miami of Ohio star, who had averaged seven minutes of playing time in the Cavs' first 14 games, logged 33 minutes of action in sparking Cleveland to a 110-103 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers.

With starting forward Bobby Smith fighting a bout with the flu, Cleveland Coach Bill Fitch sent Foster in with three minutes gone in the second period and the Cavs trailing 35-28.

Foster, who combined with Dick Snyder for 17 second period points, hit 5-for-5 from the field as the Cavs bounced back to trail 56-55 at halftime. Foster hit two straight shots after intermission and the Cavs moved ahead to stay with 4:31 left in the third period when Snyder hit from 13 feet out to give the Cavs a 70-68 lead and the 76ers never caught up.

"I have been shooting well lately, but I was getting tired in the fourth period," said Foster, who hit on 11-of-14 shots.

Foster, who had to fight to make the team during the preseason training camp, added,

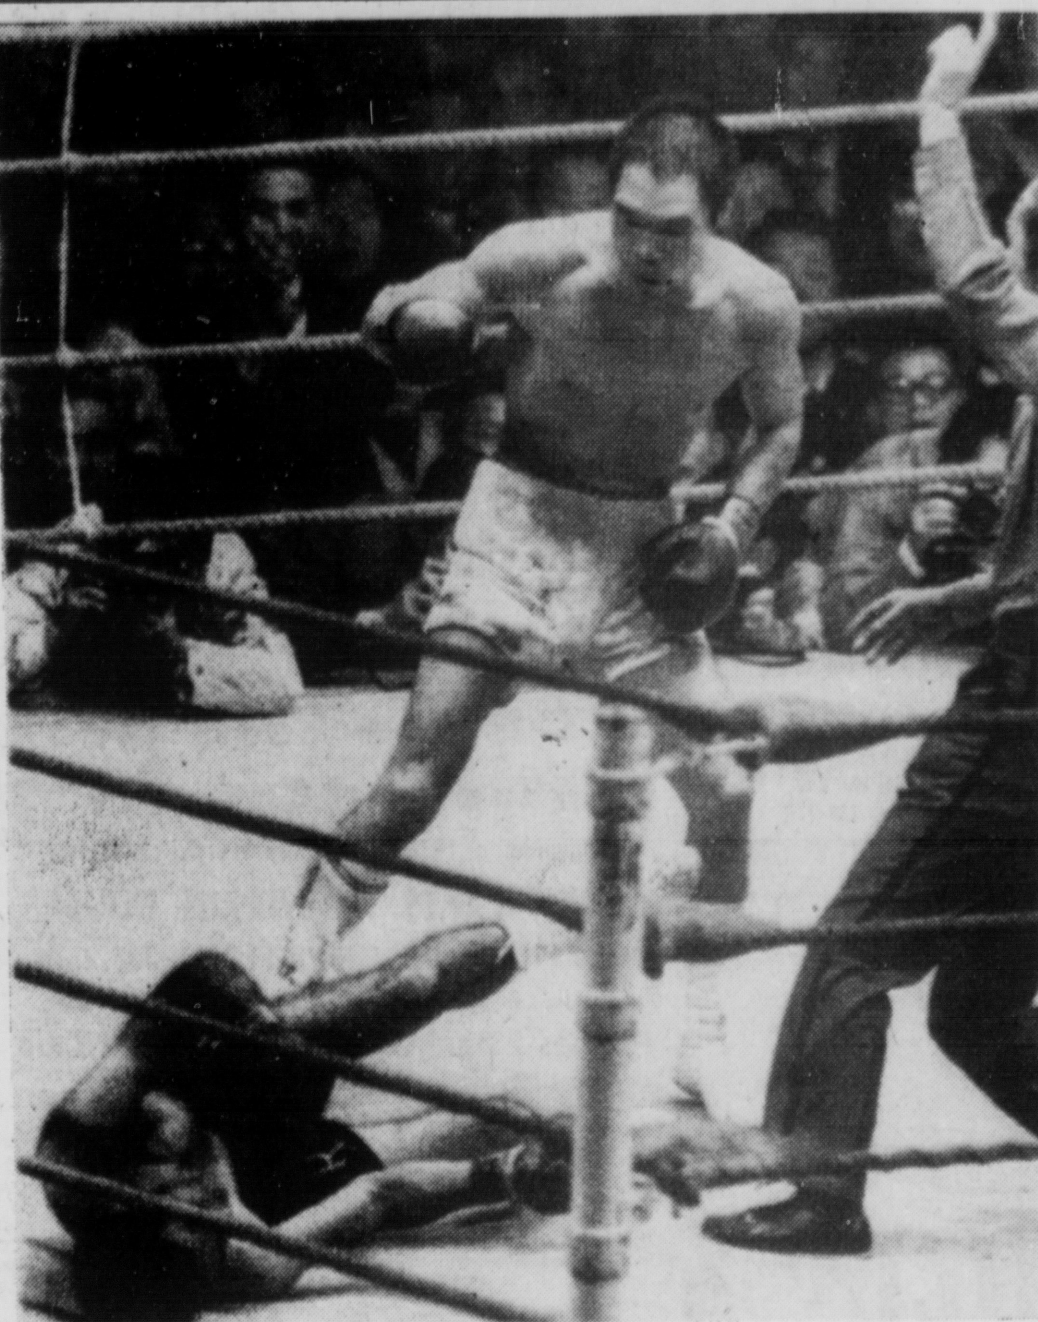

"I have had games like this before, and I did throw in 37 points in one game a few years ago."

Fitch, who kept Foster on the team because he decided to keep five forwards instead of five guards, added, "Foster worked hard and it was his good camp that got him on the team."

Portland defeated Phoenix 88-85 in the other NBA game Thursday night while Kentucky downed Virginia 108-95 in the only ABA game. Blazers 88, Suns 85

Portland used five straight free throws within a minute at the end of the gameto edge Phoenix. After an 83-83 tie, Lloyd Neal converted a foul shot to make it 84-83 and Geoff Petrie and Larry Steele each hit a pair to put the Blazers ahead 88-83 with eight seconds left. Sidney Wicks of Portland led all scorers with 29. Charlie Scott led Phoenix with 27. Colonels 108, Squires 95

Center Artis Gilmore scored 24 points and hauled down 20 rebounds to pace Kentucky over Virginia. George Irvine of Virginia had a game-high 27 points. Rookie center David Vaughn had 23 points for the Squires' effort and Dave Twardzik had 22.

Still the Champ

World Boxing Council (WBC) lightweight champion "Guts" Ishimatsu retreats to a neutral corner as the referee begins the count over Mexican challenger Rodolfo Gonzalez in the 12th round of the title fight in Osaka, Japan, Thursday. Ishimatsu's sudden knockout punch put Gonzalez on the canvas for the count giving the Japanese champion his second successful title defense. (UPI)

U.S. Golfers 5 Strokes In Front of Japanese

BY LESLIE NAKASHIMA

UPI Sports Writer

HASHIMOTO, Japan

(UPI) — A United States team today took a five-stroke lead over Japan, 586 to 586, in the first round of their fourth 54-hole pro golf team match on the 7,200-yard par-72 Hashimoto Country Club Course here.

Hubert Green sank a four-foot birdie putt on the par-five final hole for a four-under-par 68 to grab a one-stroke lead over Brian "Buddy" Allin, also of the U.S., in the individual competition for the $16,666 first prize.

Dave Stockton was in third place, firmer the only other under par score, a 70, among the 18 competitors, nine on each side.

Each team plays 18 holes each day and the scores of the best eight over the three rounds will decide the winner of the $15,000 prize. The losing team will receive $6,000. The $76,600 tournament is sponsored by the Asahi Broadcasting Company of Osaka.

Green, who collected a special prize of $1,000 for the day's best round, sank birdie putts of six feet on the second hole, five on the third, 25 on the eighth, 60 on the 15th and four on the 18th. He had only one bogey when he hit a five-iron shot over the green on the parthree 16th hole.

"I played pretty good today and I'm satisfied with my score," Green said. "I drove very well and long and did not miss a single fairway. I don't usually take so much time in putting but I was careful today because I'm still not used to the coarse 'kora' grass."

Allin, who held the lead until Green came in, said, "I'm very happy with my score because this is a long, hard course and you have to drive straight in order not to go out of bounds."

Masashi "Jumbo" Ozaki

and Isao Aoki, who were second to South Africa in the World Cup Tournament ending Sunday in Caracas, did not play. They returned Wednesday to Japan and notified tournament sponsors that they could not play because they were not in good physical condition.

Lanny Wadkins, appearing in the match for the first time, and Toru Nakamura of Japan, who teed off in the first two holes had the worst score at eight over par 80.

Arnold Palmer shot a two over par 39-35-74 and defending champion Al Geiberger had a one over par 38-35-73.

Sabres and Red Wings: A Study in Contrasts

Meeting Scheduled

NEW YORK (UPI) —

George Steinbrenner meets with his lawyer this weekend to decide whether he will test in the courts Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's ruling that he is "ineligible and incompetent" to participate in the affairs of the New York Yankees for the next two years.

The decision, one of the harshest handed down by a commissioner since the office was created in 1920, was based on Steinbrenner's admission that he made illegal campaign contributions to both parties.

Steinbrenner said he was "astonished" that Kuhn could suggest he was "incompetent" and that he would announce his future plans, if any, "sometime next week."

It was a study in contrasts — the once-proud Detroit Red Wings, with only six wins to their credit this season, and the up-and-coming Buffalo Sabres, with by far the best National Hockey League record so far this season.

Buffalo, a young, aggressive team which has lost only one game in its last 17, came out on top 5-2 in the only NHL game Thursday night. In the Sabres' dressing room the talk was — very cautiously — about the Stanley Cup playoffs.

In the Detroit dressing room, there was only a resigned dejection from Coach Alex Delvecchio, who admitted, "We didn't give them too much opposition."

The Sabres controlled the puck for most of the game with strong checking and good skating, allowing Detroit only three shots on goal in the first period and 19 for the game.

The Sabre scoring came from Martin and Brian Spencer in the first period, Rick Dudley and Rene Robert in the second and rookie Lee Fogolin in the third.

UCLA Starts Long Haul Back

UCLA, its shroud of invincibility stripped away by a bid Thompson and North Carolina State last March, opens the 1974-75 college basketball season Friday night against Wichita State.

The graduation of Bill Walton and Keith Wilkes has raised hopes that this year's second-ranked Bruins are not of the caliber that ran off seven straight national championships.

But Coach John Wooden has a benchful of high school All-Americans with which to work.

The real reason for the lack of awe for the Bruins this season is the sometimes uninspired play of what was supposed to be a rare group of freshmen last season.

Following the 1973 season, Wooden was interested in recruiting five highly-touted high school seniors. He signed all five.

The group included 6-10 Richard Washington, who was listed as a 7-footer in high school, Jim Spillane, Gavin Smith, Marques Johnson and Wilbert Olinde.

When last year's Bruins squad sometimes ran into trouble, Wooden sought help from his freshmen. With the exception of Johnson, none came through in particularly sensational style. They were good, but that's bad at UCLA.

The Bruins biggest trouble spot last season was the guard position where Wooden never really came up with a suitable floor leader.

The UCLA coach relieved Tom Curtis with Andre McCarter and Spillane at various times, but in the end always came back to Curtis. Curtis also has graduated so either McCarter or Spillane must fill the bill this season.

McCarter, a junior who came out of Philadelphia hailed as its best guard ever, has been unable to adjust to the Bruins' style of play and has failed to live up to his reputation, but will start as the point man against Wichita State.

Smith, considered a prize recruit, will play behind senior Pete Trgovich at the other guard position.

Johnson was scheduled to open at one of the forward positions, but the 6-5 sophomore came down with hepatitis and is out of the lineup for a long stint.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Everyone stood around saying "You won the fight," champ," someone said. "Robbery, robbery, that's the word," sobbed his mother.

Several others echoed them.

But Emile Griffith was going through his 99th postfight session. He wasn't going to let himself get worked up secondguessing judges' scorecards.

The 35 year-old former welter and middleweight champion lost a unanimous decision to 22-year-old Vito

Antuofermo, a local favorite, before a chanting, partisan crowd at Madison Square Garden Nov. 22. The judges had it 8-2 and 7-2-1, while the referee had it 6-3-1 for Antuofermo. But some writers at ringside had scored the fight as differently as 6-3-1 for Griffith.

"I think I won the fight easily," Griffith said softly, with a wry smile, "but that's the way boxing is. There's no scoreboard."

"When I was on the way up, and I got the decisions, I didn't worry about it. Now it's the same for this kid. Why should I complain?"

He gave away his gloves to a small boy who had been pushed by his father in front of the exchange.

"I'm sorry they're loser's gloves," he said, rubbing his balding head, but the boy was too happy to hear him.

He carefully tied the gloves together and put them into a bag, ignoring the hubbub around him until he had put a neat package into the boy's hands.

The symbolic act was too obvious to ignore.

But asked if giving away his gloves meant he might be thinking of retiring, Griffith was quick to strike a mock fighting pose.

"I'm not going to let this Irishman get away that easily," he cracked, pointing to his longtime manager, Gil Clancy. "Some of you writers will be retiring before I do."

"Anyway we've already signed to fight somebody next month. Though he might not want to fight me now that I've lost."

With the unexpected defeat (he was an 8-5 favorite), Griffith's hopes for another title shot all but vanish. Emile Griffith now has to accept the role of spoiler as permanently his. More young prospects like Vito Antuofermo, who want a shot at a big name with a little punch, will be knocking at his door.

But they, like Antuofermo, will have some surprises in store.

Griffith, win or lose, gave the young Italian from Brooklyn a few good lessons before he remembered his age and slowed down in the late rounds.

"Six years ago I would have put that kid away in a couple of rounds," he admitted. "But let's face it, it's not six years ago."

"This kid is no Benvenuti," he added, with a faraway look, alluding to the other Italian who gave him some memorable battles a few years ago, "but he has a lot of guts and he might give Monzon (Carlos, the current middleweight champion) a good fight."

But the "old man" said it in a way that made it clear he wasn't ready to concede too much. He wanted that fight with Monzon himself. He thought he had won the fight and it would take a much more convincing defeat to make him wrap up his gloves for the last time.

Without a doubt, he's going to give a few more lessons before he wraps up his tools of the last 17 years and passes them on permanently to the young kids who are constantly being pushed before him.

College Students Take a New Look at Sports — In the Classroom

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — Dr. Maynard Weston Dow went from collegiate football coach to professor of geography at Plymouth State College. He's now combining the two subjects for a study of athletes and sports and their migratory patterns across the nation.

In his new course, "Geography of Sports," students study and research the movements of teams and athletes. Among the changes being studied, for example, is professional sports expansion — first toward the West Coast, then to the South.

Baseball, he noted, once was a luxury of the northeast. But that changed in 1953 when the Boston Braves made their revolutionary move to Milwaukee.

The 45-year-old Dow, who coached at Rutgers from 1956 to 1960 and at the Air Force Academy from 1960 to 1972, also wonders about fan allegiances.

"Do fans in an area like Bridgeport, Conn., change their allegiance from the Yankees to the pennant-winning Boston Red Sox in 1967? Do fans in Burlington, Vt., favor the Boston Bruins or Montreal Canadiens?" he asks.

Dow also wonders whether certain regions have greater success luring athletes to local colleges than others.

As an example he cites the 1962 Orange Bowl where all but one Louisiana State University football player was from Louisiana while athletes from the opposing Colorado team came from states scattered across the country.

"It would have been interesting to take a nationwide sample to ascertain which areas of the country favored Miami as opposed to Minnesota in the Super Bowl," he said. "Did fans in Indiana favor the Dolphins because their quarterback, Bob Griese, played for Purdue and was from Indiana, or did they root for the Vikings because of their geographic proximity to Minnesota?" he asked.

He said early research has shown western athletes tend to stay in their home states when selecting colleges while midwestern and New England players move around.

And, he would like to determine whether coaches native to the states where their college is located enjoy more success in recruiting local players than do out-of-state coaches.

Dow's class is also studying the correlations between geography and popularity of sports. Some are obvious, others are not.

Competitive swimming in New Hampshire is scarce, he points out, because pools are expensive and very few high schools have them.

Likewise, it would seem that baseball would not be very popular in New Hampshire due to the long, snow-filled winters. Not so. Baseball is one of the most popular sports in the state, with many high school and college teams playing their first game without even having gone outside the gym to practice.

Some of the more obvious sports correlations have been reinforced by Dow's research.

Re-Creating A Tragedy

Three stunt men make their way through smoke and fire of the "Hindenburg" set in Hollywood, Calif., during the flaming re-creation of the 1937 German airship crash that killed 36 persons. The stunt men were inside what will look like the dirigible's gondola. The entire set around the gondola was set afire and lowered fifteen feet before it tipped over. The men jumped from their porch and ran to safety. (UPI)

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Someone you've been wanting to hear from will be getting in touch. There will be lots of small talk to catch up on.

TAURUS (April 20-May

20) Use some of your time to put your bills and records in order. Reevaluate your budget. See where you can trim some waste.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This is one of those days where you need active challenges to keep you busy and content. You're up to handling them now.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your sense of humor can be used as a very effective tool today. You'll get your points across without offending anyone.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A misunderstanding you've had with another can be rectified now. The other party is eagerly waiting to hear from you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Something important to you can be gained today if you're flexible and prepared to change tactics on a moment's notice.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Someone you'll be talking to will put you on the track of a good idea. Treat it seriously. Something worthwhile can come of it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Before you get yourself involved in a new situation that will cost money, spend ample time investigating all the aspects.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There's more than one good solution regarding something that you'll be faced with today. Weigh your alternatives carefully.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Now is the time to discuss things that displease you with co-workers. Better methods will be arrived at through a meeting of minds.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A new social interest will be found, and even though it's just temporary it will prove quite stimulating and be a welcome change of pace.

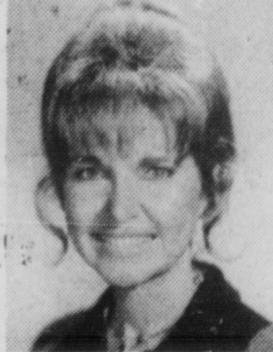

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Things will be buzzing about your dinner table this evening as everyone will have something to say. All will try to get their two cents worth in.

BREAK: (Q.) Angela is driving me crazy. I've been on pot and pills for two years, and yesterday I took my first shot of heroin. I did it because she broke up with me for no reason. I love her so much and I want her back. For God's sake help me. I think I am going to kill myself.—Suffering in Wisconsin

(A.) It seems to me that Angela had a very good reason to break up with you. Your drug habit not only probably makes you very hard to get along with, but she may be trying to avoid it herself.

Stop blaming her for your foulups. Take positive action to get off drugs. If necessary, get psychological or medical help. Then go to Angela clean and straight. Maybe she will take you back.

FRENCH KISSING: (Q.) It's totally beyond me how a grown man like "Disgusted Father" can have such a negative view of sex.

Even the sexual act itself is a beautiful, God-given expression of love between two human beings, provided the feelings it entails are genuine and the time and place are right.

French kissing is far from sexual intercourse, though I don't condone it as a post-office-type game.

I am 17 and have never done anything to make my parents unhappy, but I do not have a closed mind like "Disgusted Father."—Realistic in Pennsylvania overall, the bid figured to be a loser.

(A.) Hundreds wrote to disagree with "Disgusted Father." Your letter is representative and I am glad to print it.

West opened the Jack of spades and East made the mistake of rising with the king. There was little purpose in that play. His partner had not underlined the ace. If East had hung on to the king, South would have wound up one trick short of his slam.

South grabbed that king with his ace and noted that his queen-nine were now established as the top tenace in that suit.

He proceeded to run off all six trumps while discarding two spades, a club and a diamond from dummy. Then he cashed dummy's three top diamonds to discard his own eight of clubs.

South was now left with the queen-nine of spades and king of clubs. West in back of him decided to hang on to two spades and a club.

Now South led dummy's club. West won the trick and had to lead a spade right into South's tenace.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

We aren't going to try to settle the argument about whether North or South bid too much on the way to six hearts. Suffice to say that with West sticking in a club

Emphasis on Food as Kissinger Concludes Five-Day Peking Visit

SHANGHAI (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger ended a five-day trip to China today, viewing ancient gardens, touring an embroidery factory and eating at every stop along the way.

Kissinger topped his diplomatic talks with a Thanksgiving Day dinner in which a Chinese army band played "Turkey in the Straw" and spent today touring Soochow before going to Shanghai.

The secretary visited the 2,500-year-old Tiger Hill Gardens, the 500-year-old Chocheng Gardens planted during the Ming Dynasty, and an embroidery factory.

He attended three banquets and stopped six times for tea and snacks during today's trip. At one point he said, "Well, I haven't eaten for at least 30 minutes."

Then he sat down and ate again.

Kissinger was scheduled to arrive in Tokyo tonight to brief Japanese officials on his talks with Chinese leaders. He was due to fly home to Washington Saturday, ending a four-nation tour of Asia.

American officials refused to comment on much of the talks, but said China and the United States agreed to skirt the major issue dividing them — U.S. recognition of the Taiwan government.

Newsman asked a U.S. official if America's two-China policy came up during Kissinger's talks with Premier Chou En-lai, Deputy Premier Teng Hsiao-ping and Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan-hua.

"We're not pushing that," the official said.

Is Peking, which cites U.S. recognition of Taiwan as the bar toward full Sino-American relations, pressing it?

"There's no great pressure," said the official.

On Thanksgiving Day, Kissinger presided at a farewell Chinese-style meal for his hosts in Peking's Great Hall of the People.

The only vaguely Thanksgiving Day item on the menu was sweet potato, but it was served inside a pie crust along with abalone in white sauce, shredded duck and dozens of other Peking delights.

A green-uniformed Chinese army band provided a touch of the holiday, however, by playing a selection of such festive music as "Turkey in the Straw."

Asked how he enjoyed the Thanksgiving meal, Kissinger laughed and said he had a traditional turkey dinner earlier with U.S. Ambassador George Bush. "Of course, it was sweet and sour turkey," he said.

Kissinger rose after the dinner and toasted the Chinese for the "very warm and very friendly visit." He said the talks "continued the progress made on each previous occasion."

The secretary said the visit committed both sides to seeking normalization of relations and strengthened America's new era of friendship with China.

He said the trip gave him a better understanding of China's point of view and he promised to take Peking's ideas into account in forming U.S. policy.

Chiao, in return, praised the talks for increasing mutual understanding and improving Sino-American relations.

KISSINGER, TENG, CHIAO (UPI)

Parliament and Queen Outlaw the IRA

LONDON (UPI) — Parliament and Queen Elizabeth today outlawed the Irish Republican Army and gave the police wider emergency powers to arrest and hold suspected bombers and terrorists.

Scotland Yard maintained tight security throughout the capital against retaliatory IRA attacks.

The anti-IRA bill received an unopposed third and final reading in the House of Commons after a marathon 17 hours of debate. The House of Lords gave it rubber stamp approval less than 15 minutes after receiving it and sent it to Queen Elizabeth, who signed it.

Despite a night of criticism by opposition legislators calling the measure too soft, the bill went through the House of Commons unopposed on its third and final reading.

Scotland Yard warned Britons to guard against reprisal bombings. A series of blasts has wounded 29 Londoners since the IRA crackdown was announced Monday.

Worried London mailmen, fearing a new outbreak of letter bombs, refused to handle packages to and from Ireland.

Despite the delaying tactics of some legislators, the House of Commons passed the "Prevention of Terrorism" bill and armed police with wide powers to seize IRA suspects.

The government drafted the bill following bomb attacks in Birmingham last week that killed 20 persons. Police blamed the IRA for the blasts.

Bomb blasts have killed 49 persons and injured more than 800 in Britain in the past two years as part of an IRA campaign to end British rule in Northern Ireland.

The government-sponsored bill makes the IRA illegal in Britain for the first time and bans wearing of IRA uniforms. It also gives authorities power to bar or expel IRA suspects from Britain.

Spokesmen for all parties united to support the crackdown in Parliament.

The objections came from individual members demanding a doubling of the maximum five years imprisonment for membership in the IRA and seeking to give the police even tougher powers.

Northern Ireland members complained the expulsion measures had the effect of treating Northern Ireland like a foreign country and asked for changes.

But political sources said the final bill would go on the statute books along the broad lines sought by Home Secretary Roy Jenkins.

"I have not claimed and do not claim now that the proscription of the IRA will of itself reduce these terrorist outrages," Jenins told Parliament. "But the public should no longer have to endure the affront of public demonstrations in support of that body."

Israelis Kill 5 Guerrillas

Israeli troops patrolling inside Lebanon battled a squad of Palestinian guerrillas and killed five of them, the Tel Aviv military command reported today. One guerrilla escaped.

The first frontier clash in a month took place north of Kibbutz Dan Thursday night on the eve of Israeli celebrations marking the 27th anniversary of the U.N. vote to create the Jewish state.

"We were on a routine patrol near the frontier and by the light of the moon we saw a group of terrorists about 100 yards away," a member of the Israeli patrol said in an interview with the armed forces radio.

He said the equipment they carried indicated "they were aiming at hitting one of the settlements" inside Israel. "It was a hard, fierce firefight."

A military command spokesman in Tel Aviv said there were no Israeli casualties in the battle near the collective settlement at Dan, built on the site of ancient Israel's northernmost outpost.

The Palestine News Agency said in Beirut the guerrillas attacked an Israeli army camp northwest of Dan with artillery, rockets and machine guns, but gave no casualty figures.

"A big confrontation battle took place between the revolutionaries and the enemy forces in the area," the news agency said.

The Beirut newspaper An Nahar quoted Arab diplomatic sources today as reporting Egypt has told U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim it will reject any Israeli withdrawal from Sinai unless it is accompanied by a similar withdrawal from the Golan Heights.

Sinai is Egyptian territory, while the Golan Heights are Syrian territory. Israel has occupied both since the 1967 Middle East war.

An Nahar said Egypt felt that the peace efforts of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger "were not enough by themselves" to accomplish any serious advance towards a peaceful settlement of the Middle East crisis.

"Egypt also says that it will not discuss any political issue in the crisis with Israel outside the Geneva (Arab-Israeli peace) conference, and that the resumption of the conference is a basic condition for the accomplishment of any advance in political efforts," the newspaper said.

"Egypt emphasized its agreement with Syria that the coming six months are a period of testing of Israeli intentions and the international peace efforts, especially those of the United States, to show if settlement efforts are advancing or going in a vicious circle," the newspaper said.

Guerrilla groups have frequently raided Israel to protest anniversaries of the U.N. vote that called for the creation of separate Jewish and Arab states in the former British territory of Palestine.

The Tel Aviv spokesman said the guerrillas "were about to enter our territory from Fatahland" — Israel's term for southeast Lebanon. He said "the terrorists were found to be carrying Kalachnikov rifles, bazookas and other equipment."

It was the first encounter with guerrillas along the Lebanese frontier since Oct. 29, when Israel reported killing three commandos in a frontier clash.

Last week, three guerrillas killed four Israeli civilians in the Jordan Valley border town of Beit Shean before Israeli troops gunned down the raiders and enraged townsmen burned the Arab bodies.

On the occupied Golan Heights, less than a mile east of Dan, military sources reported all quiet less than 24 hours before the U.N. Security Council was due to renew the six-month mandate of the 1,200-man peacekeeping force.

U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim returned to U.N. headquarters in New York Thursday after a trip to the region to discuss the truce force.

He said he was confident Syria would approve an extension of the truce team's mandate despite reports of initial hesitance.

"I do not expect a confrontation in the Mideast in the near future," the Austrian diplomat said. "There is a much better chance for peace."

A reporter for Israel's Armed Forces Radio, in a broadcast this morning from the Golan Heights, said, "There is no heavy air of tension here."

He said there were no signs of unusual military traffic. U.N. troops in winter parkas and boots carried out relaxed, routine activity, he said.

Constantine: Return in Any Form

LONDON (UPI) — Exiled King Constantine of Greece says he's ready to return to his homeland as a private citizen if Greek voters refuse to put him back on the throne.

"The great dream of my family and myself is to live in our homeland," he told a news conference Thursday. "I think that if nobody has lived in exile then they can't realize the frustration and bitterness."

The Greek people were scheduled to vote Dec. 8 in a referendum on whether Greece should be a monarchy or a republic.

"No matter what the referendum decides I shall always be ready to return to my country and serve it in any capacity, at any time," said Constantine with Danish-born Queen AnneMarie by his side.

The king and queen fled Greece in 1967 after failing in an abortive coup to topple a military junta that had seized power earlier in the year.

The Greek royal family lived in Rome before moving to Britain last year. The youngest of their three children was born in exile.

"I certainly hope that no matter what the decision of the Greek people will be — which we all respect — we will be able to return to our homeland," the deposed king said.

Constantine said he recognized the structure of the Greek monarchy would have to be watered down even if the voters agree to his return as king.

"The new kind of democracy is one in which it is not for me to set political policy, but to act as a symbol of national unity and stability," he said.

"My title after Dec. 9 will not be king of Greece, but king of the Hellenes," he said.

"I will represent all Greeks throughout the world, the strong and the weak, the majority and the minority, and in this respect I think the monarchy could serve the country well."

He said he would leave military appointments to the governing authorities — on the understanding that the armed forces would stay out of political affairs.

Premier Constantine Caramanlis ordered the referendum after winning an overwhelming victory earlier this month in Greece's first free elections in a decade.

Caramanlis returned from exile in Paris last summer and set up a provisional civilian government when the Greek military junta collapsed during the Cyprus crisis.

7,000 Geneva Employees First to Strike the UN Organization

GENEVA (UPI) — The United Nations' 7,000 employees in Geneva staged the world organization's first strike today to dramatize their demands for higher salaries, allowances and pensions.

Civil Servants Union officials said only a few persons ignored the half-day strike call.

The U.N. European headquarters and all the specialized agencies in Geneva, when telephoned, replied: "There is a work stoppage this morning."

Employees gathered in the assembly halls of their organizations to hear union leaders explain the pay demands.

The U.N. information office refused to allow photographers and television cameramen to film the meetings.

Security guards searched newsmen to make sure they were not carrying cameras. "It is none of the public's business," one spokesman said.

The employees struck U.N. European headquarters and its branch organizations, including the World Health Organization, International Labor Organization, World

Meteorological Organization and International Telecommunications Union.
